LANDON

HODGE

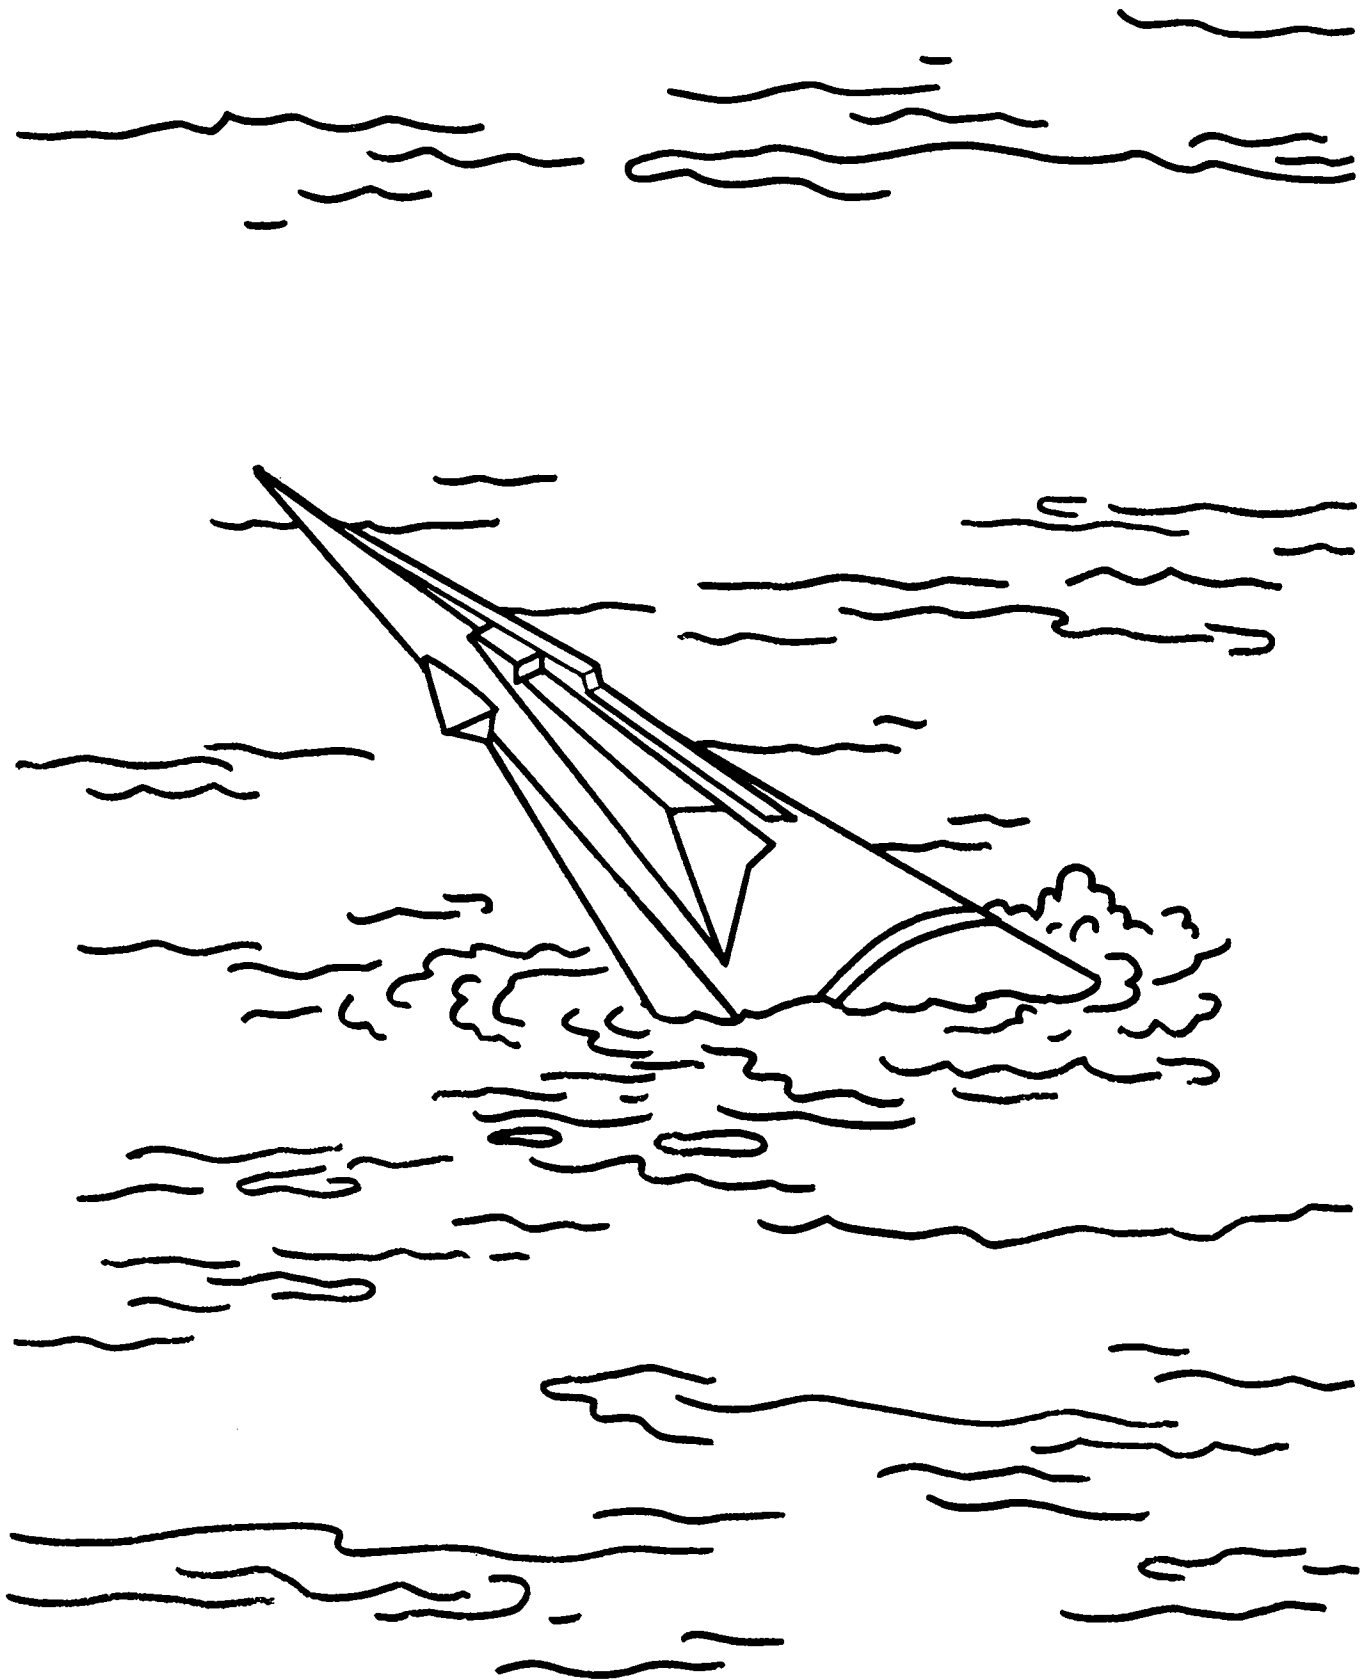

Three American astronauts are lost in space.

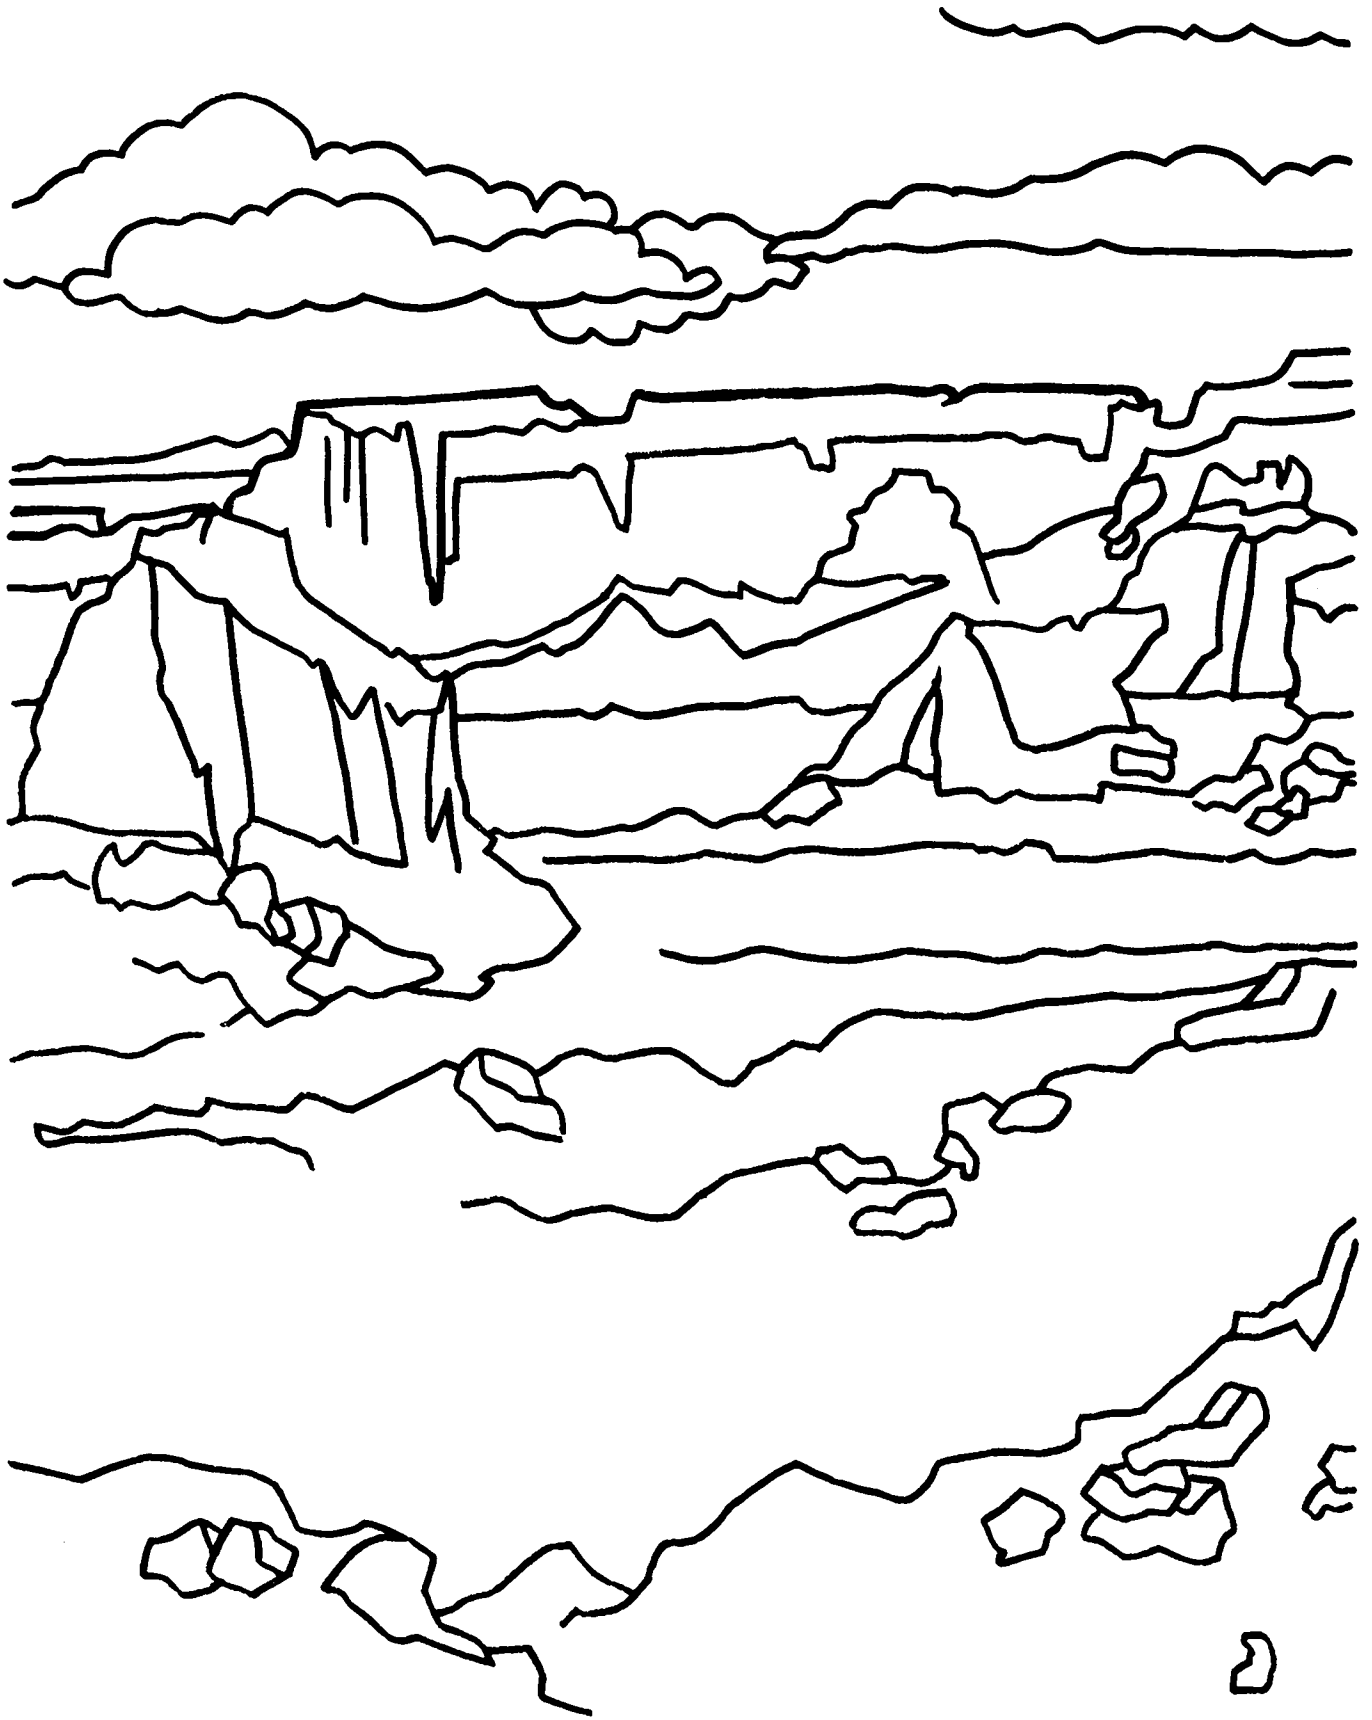

Taylor, the senior astronaut, must make a difficult decision.

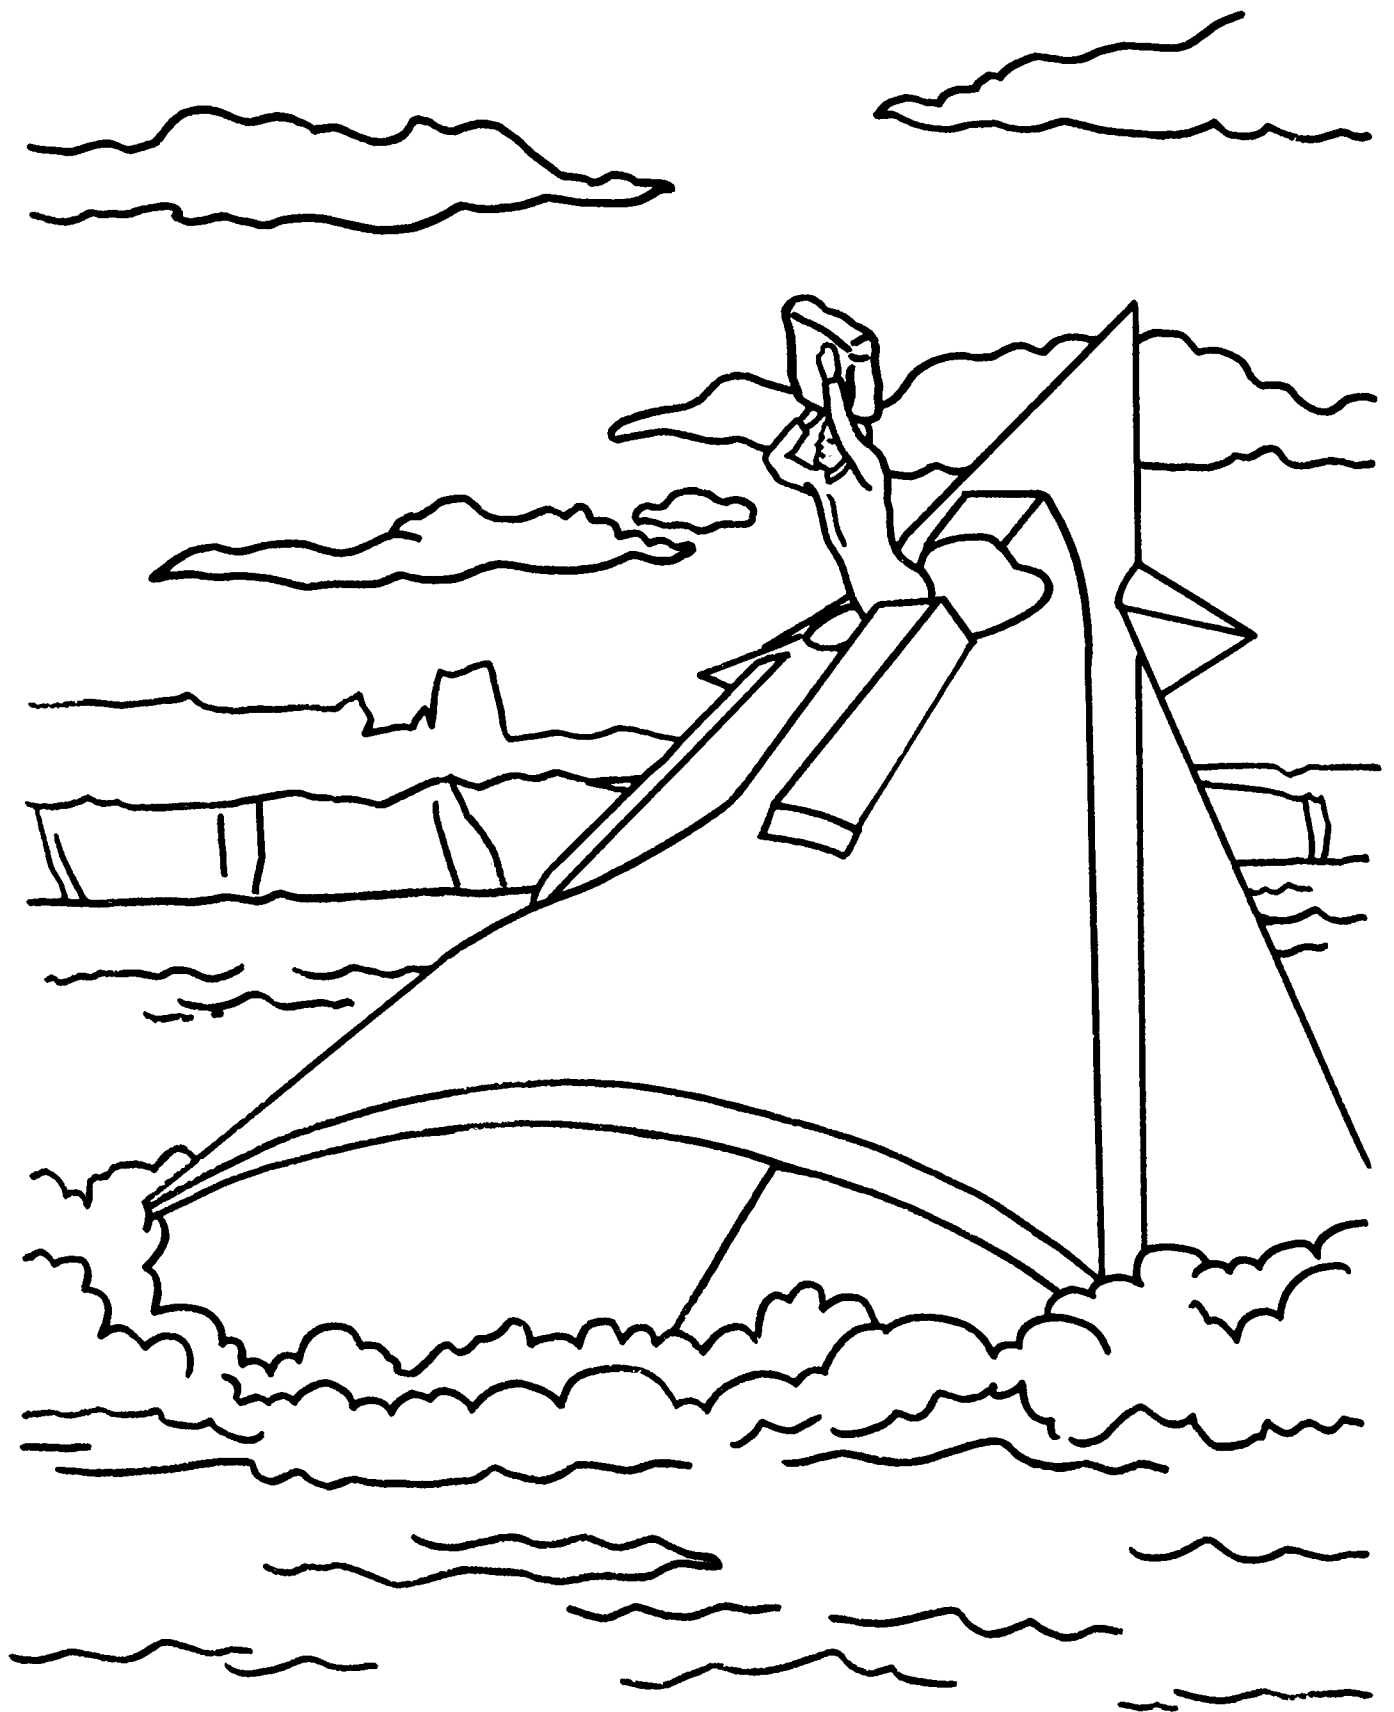

He injects himself and his crew with a serum that suspends time.

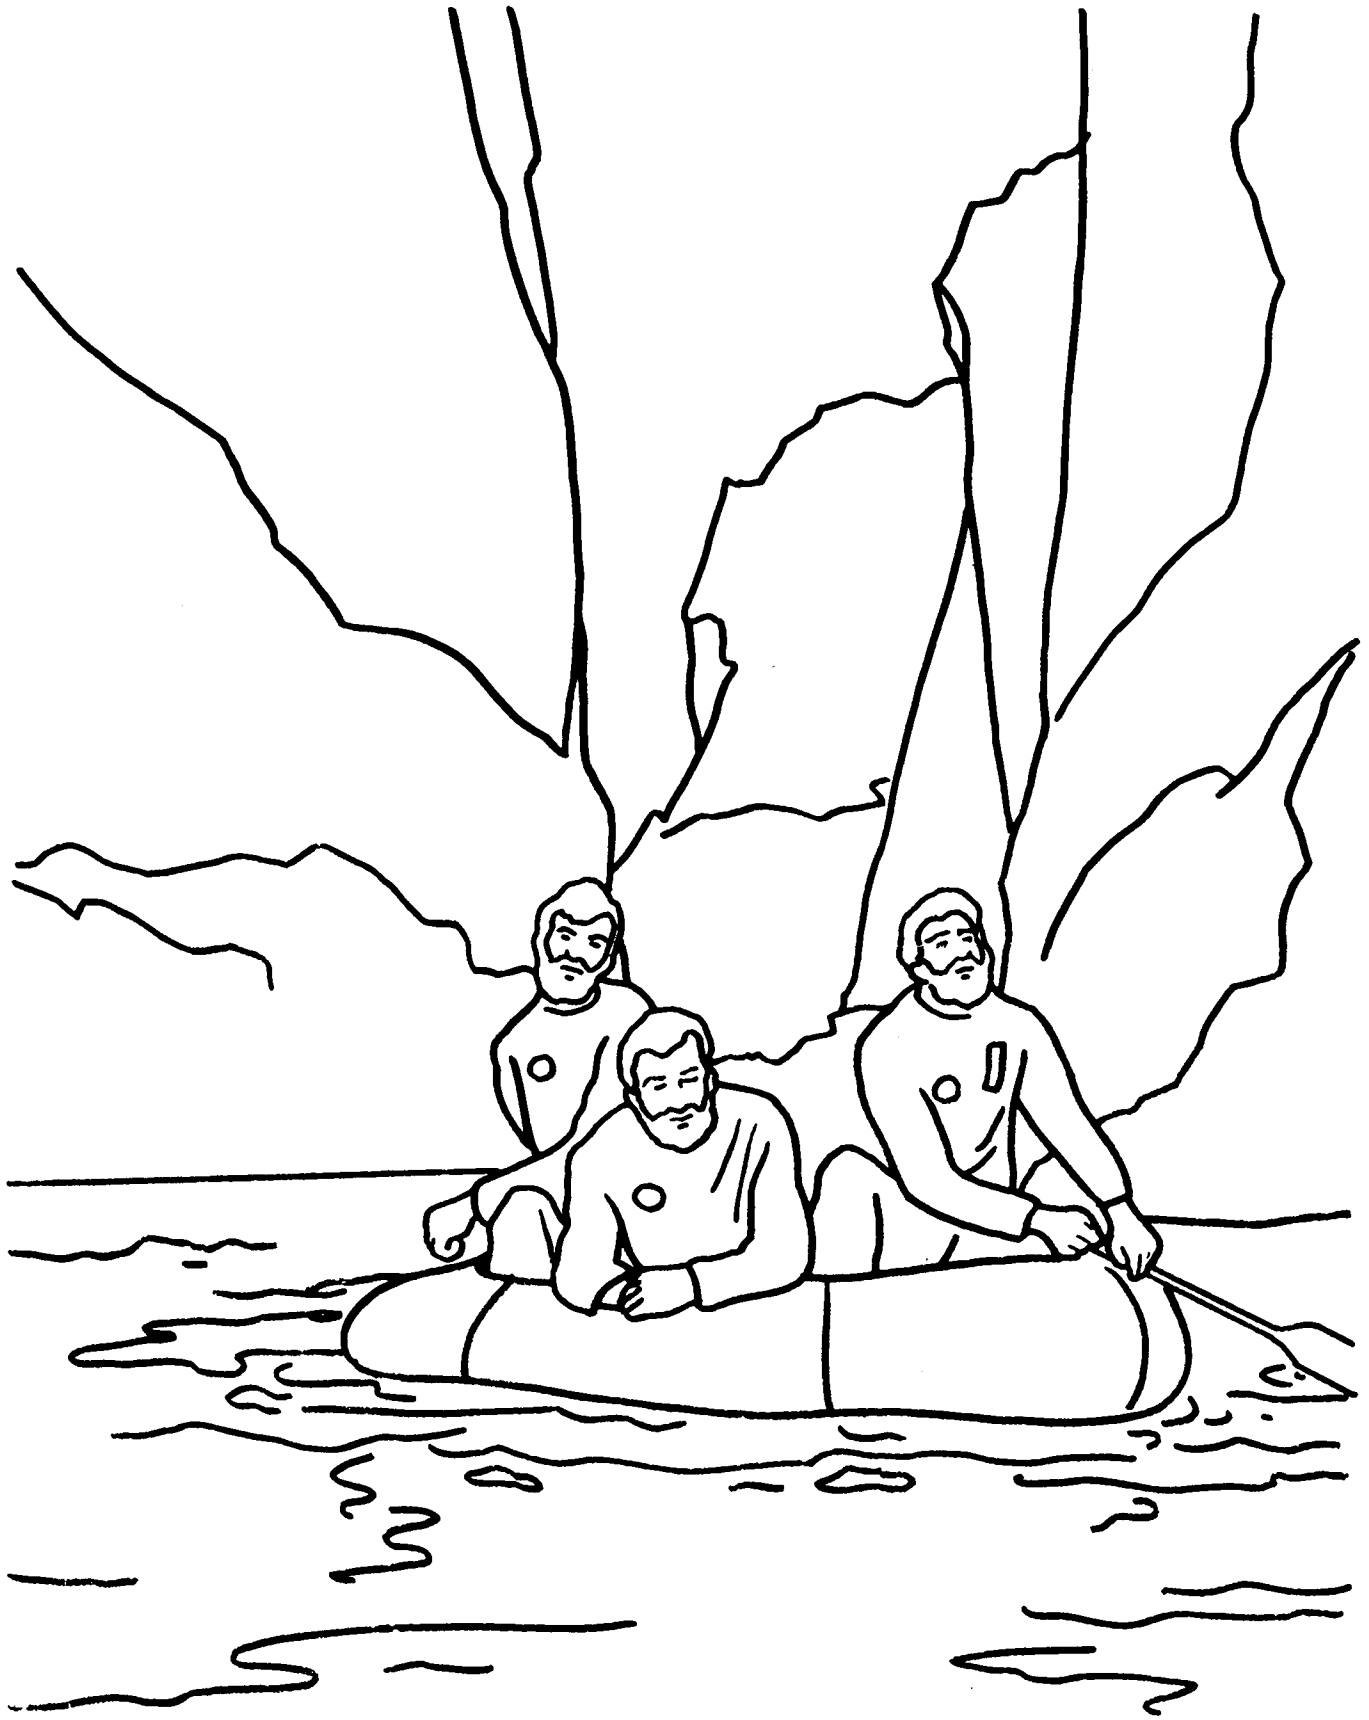

Hundreds of years later the spaceship crashes into the sea.

Outside the spaceship is a strange and forbidding landscape.

Taylor throws an inflatable life raft into the water...

...and the astronauts row towards the rocky shore.

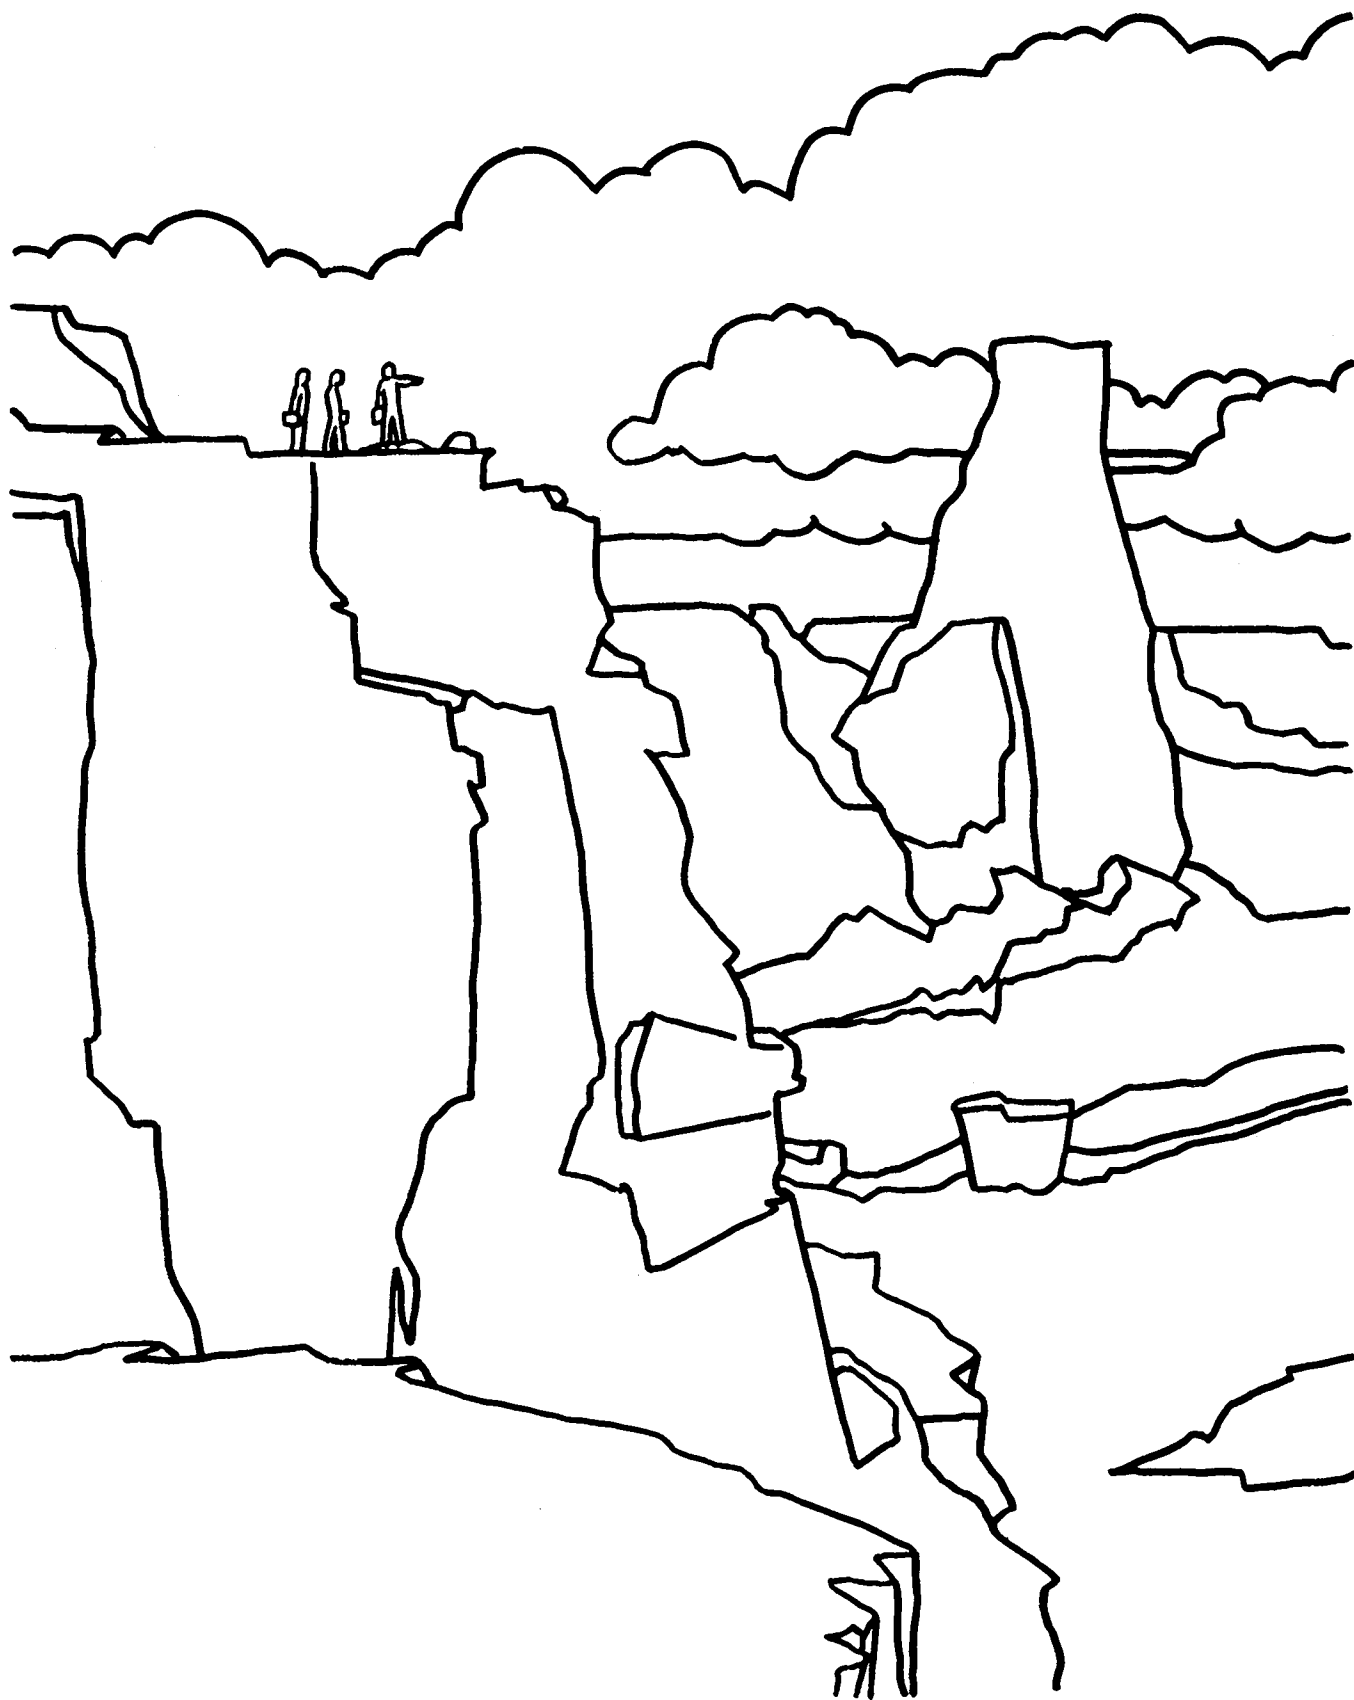

“What are our chances of survival in this barren wasteland?”

"I don't know. We only have enough food for three days!"

SETTING OUT ON FOOT

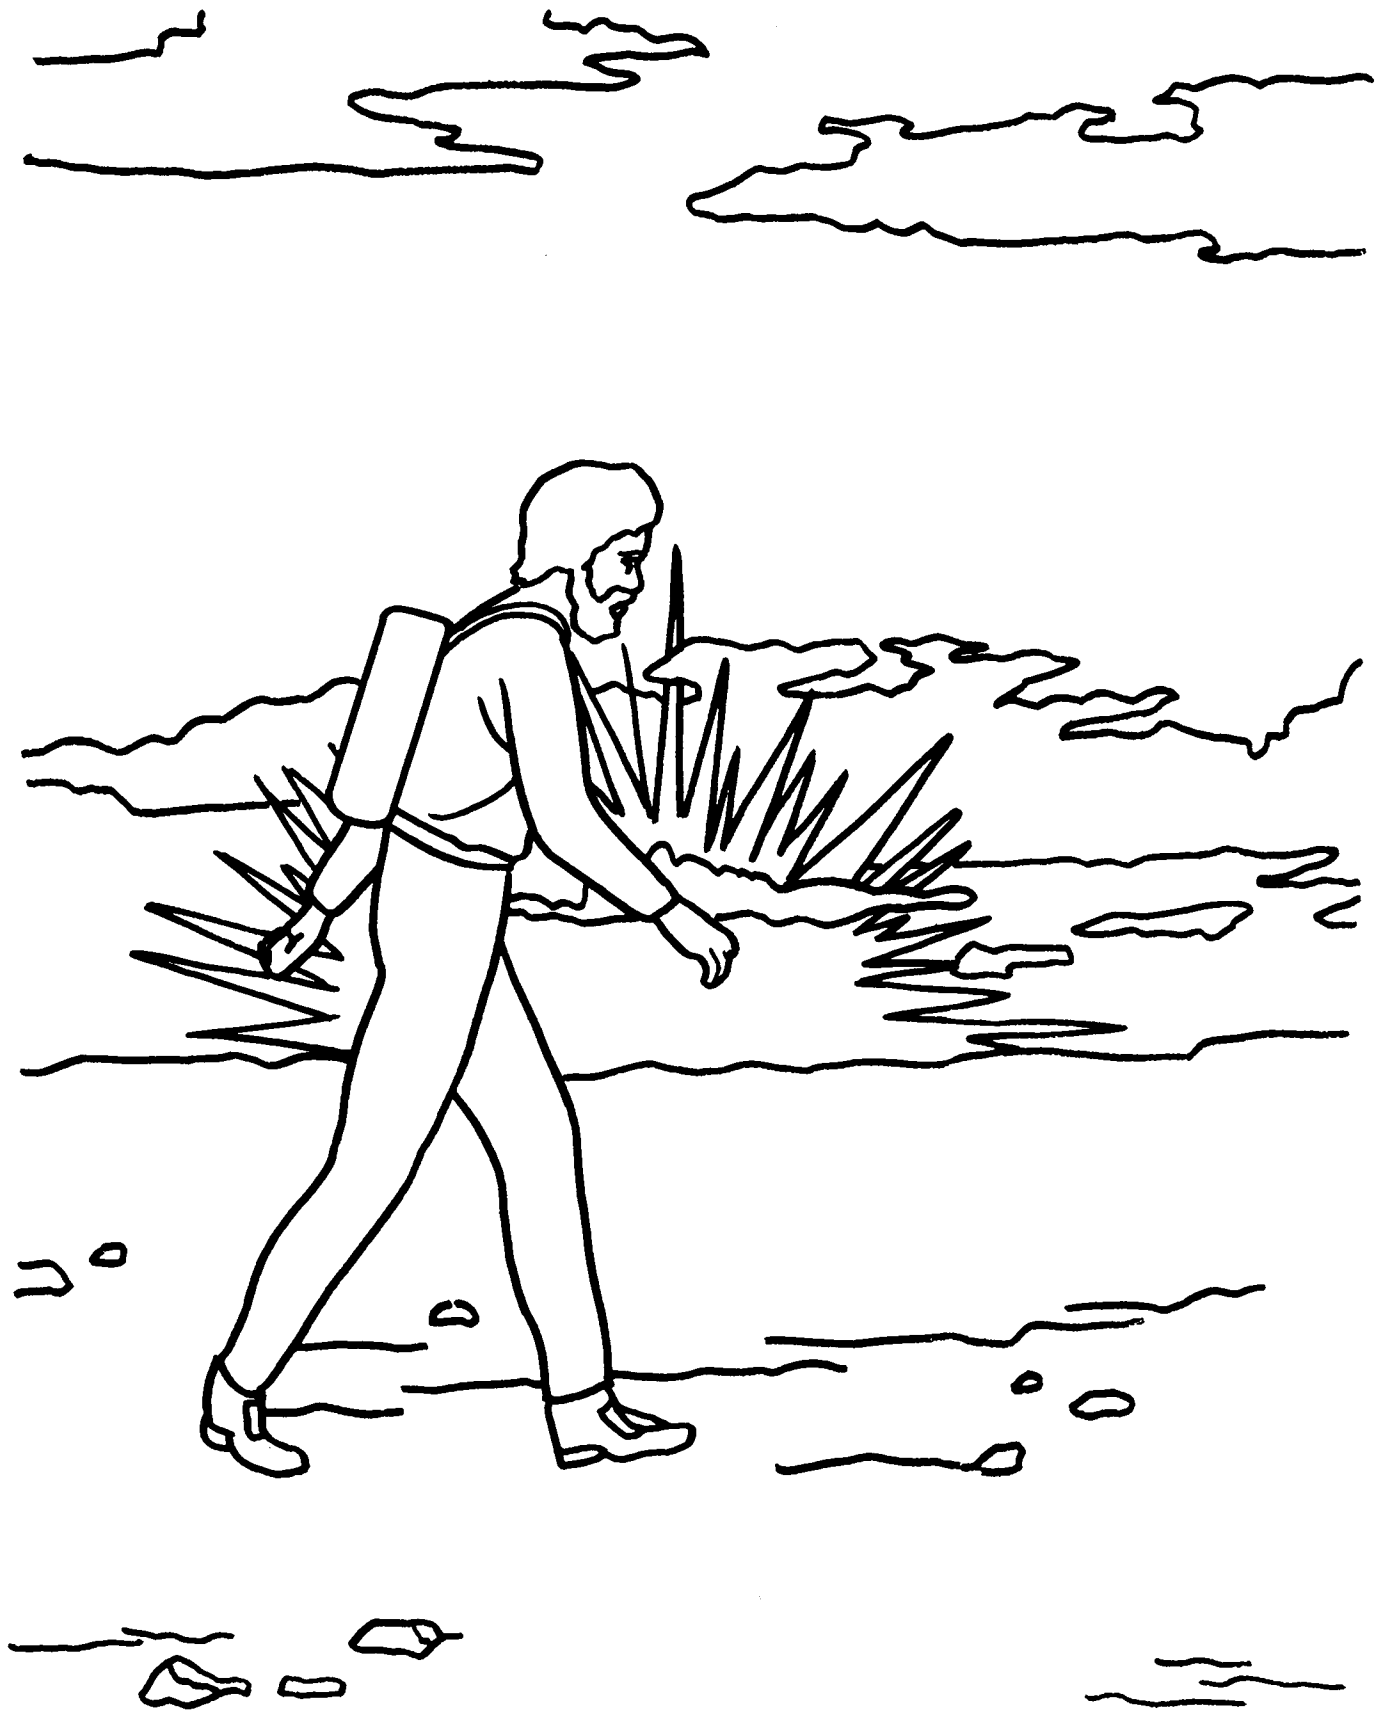

"We must keep walking until we find food and water."

“Our supplies are almost gone!”

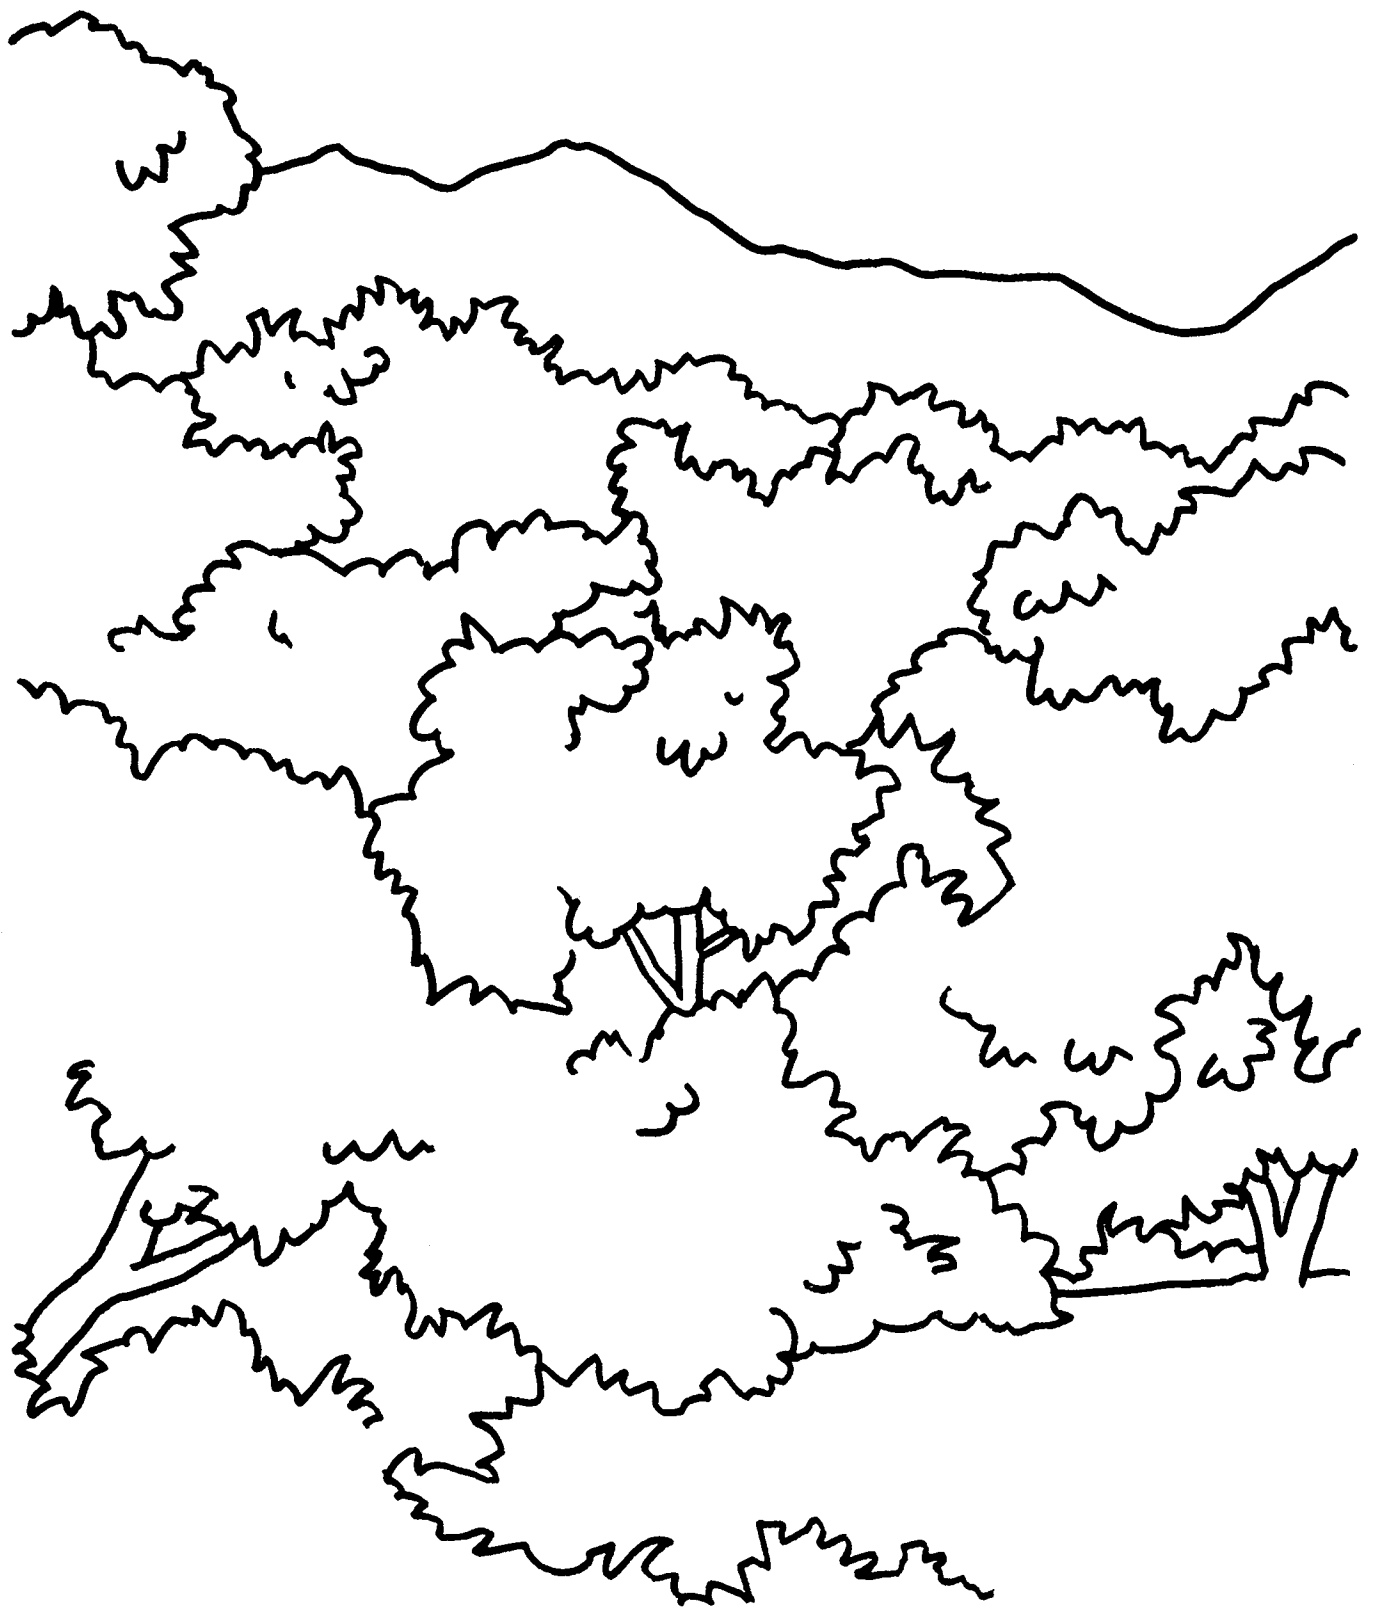

Taylor sees something green growing in the arid soil.

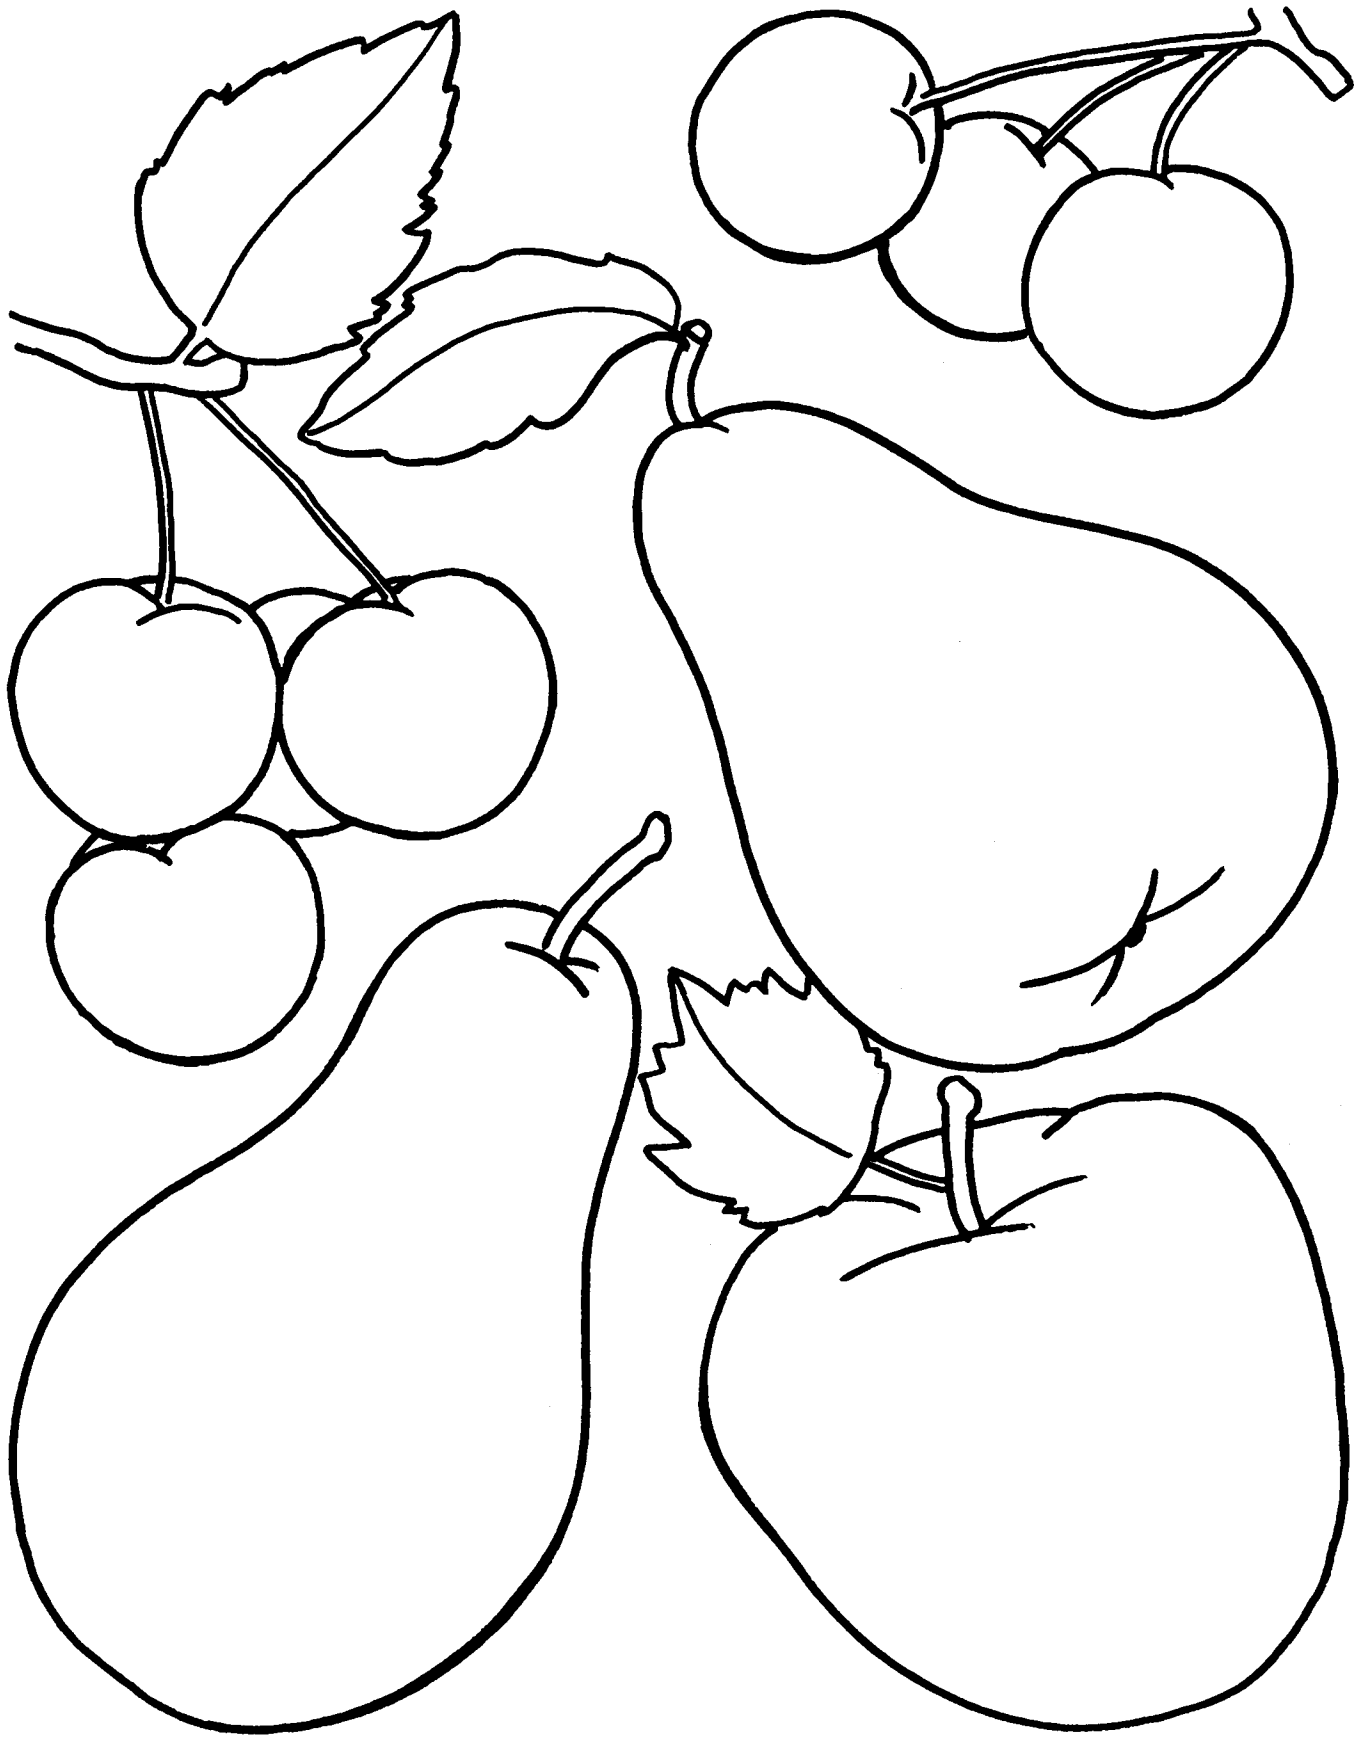

"It's some kind of plant. This means that there may be life on this planet!"

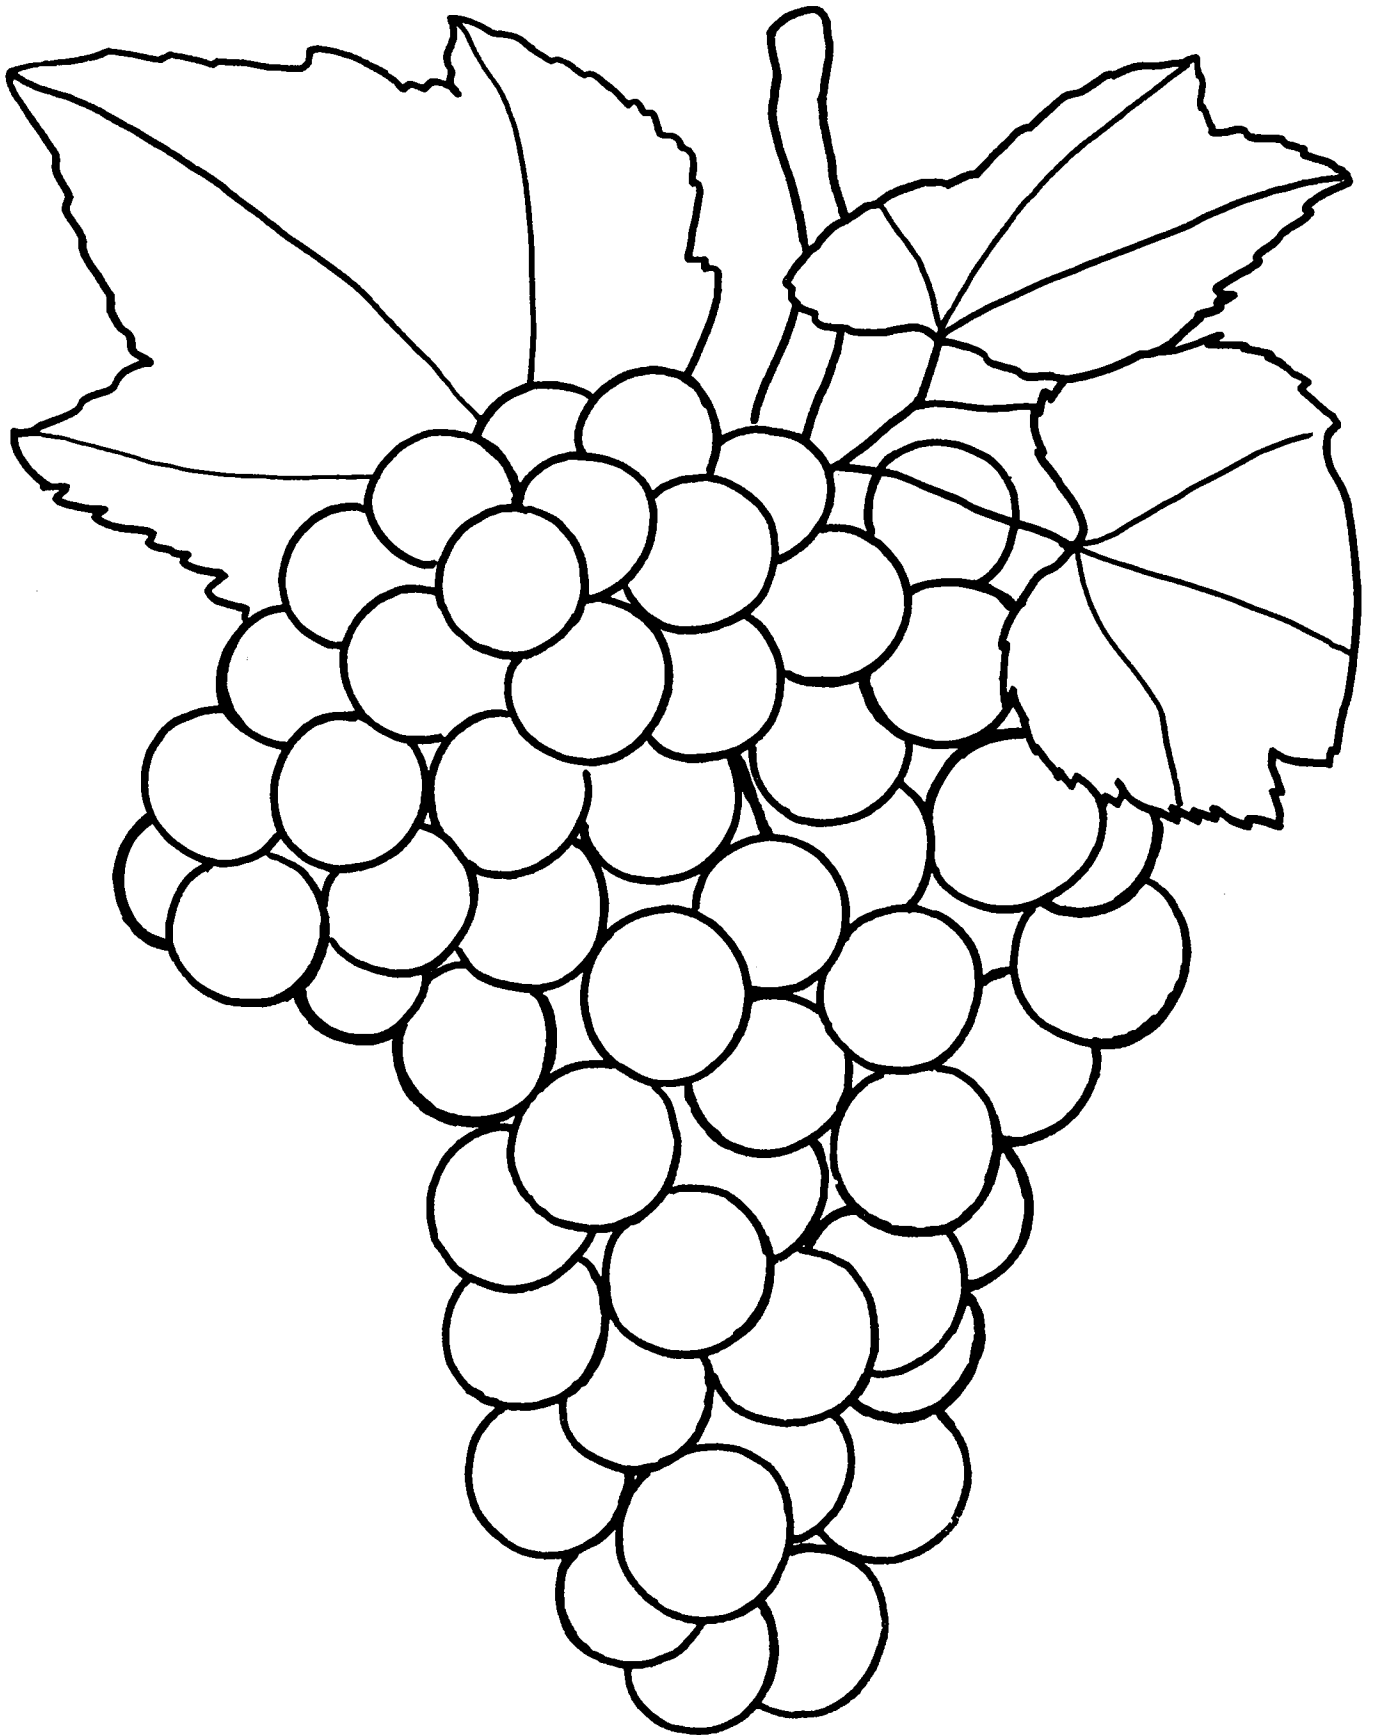

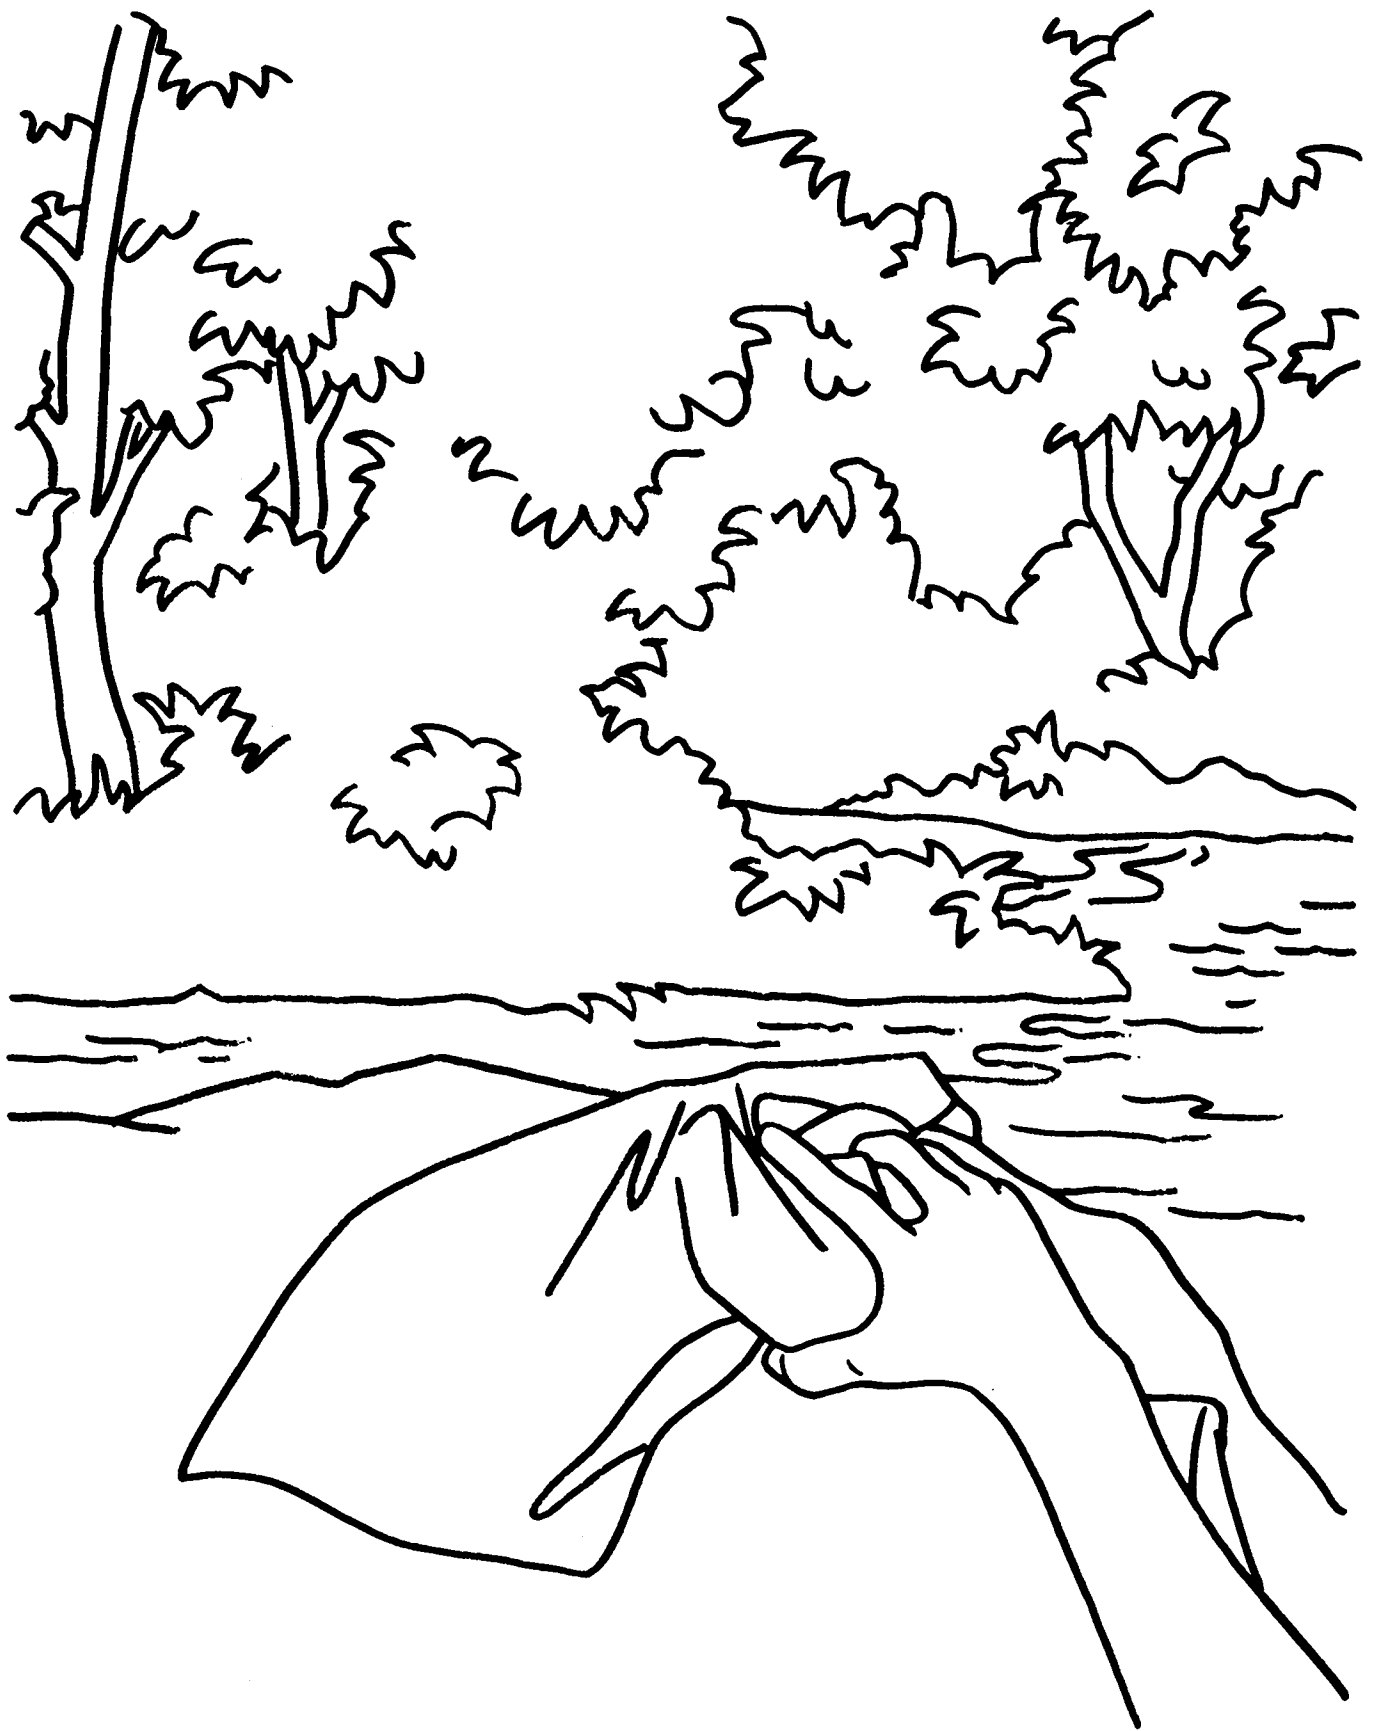

“Look up, ahead...there are trees...and water!!!”

The men feast on fruit that is growing in the valley.

While the men are swimming, someone steals some of their clothing.

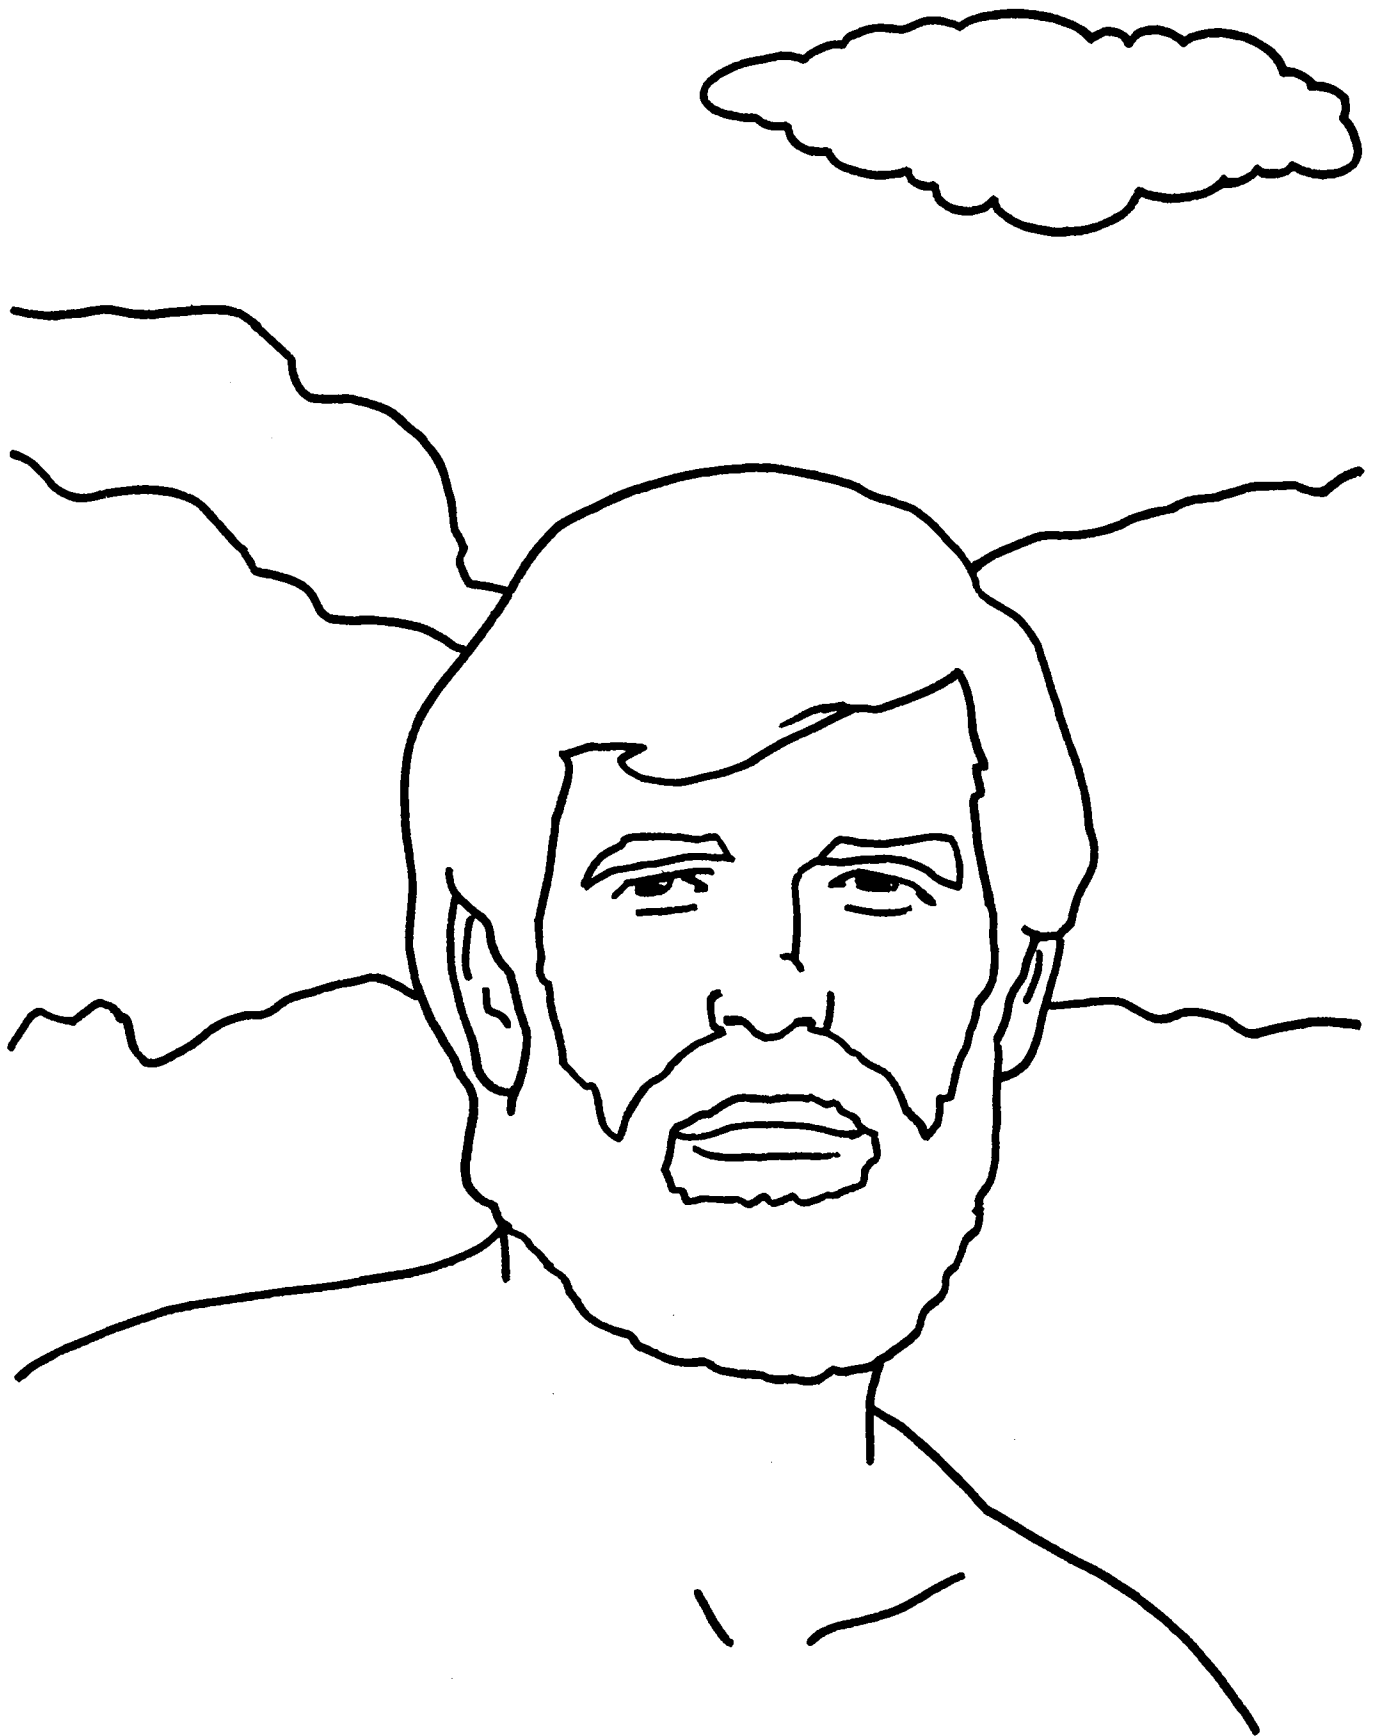

“Now we know there are other people
on this planet.”

“There they are in that cornfield...they look almost primitive!”

Taylor is attracted to Nova, a beautiful girl who is mute.

Suddenly a band of gorillas appear on horseback.

Taylor is dumbfounded by what he sees!

“You are intruders in our land!”

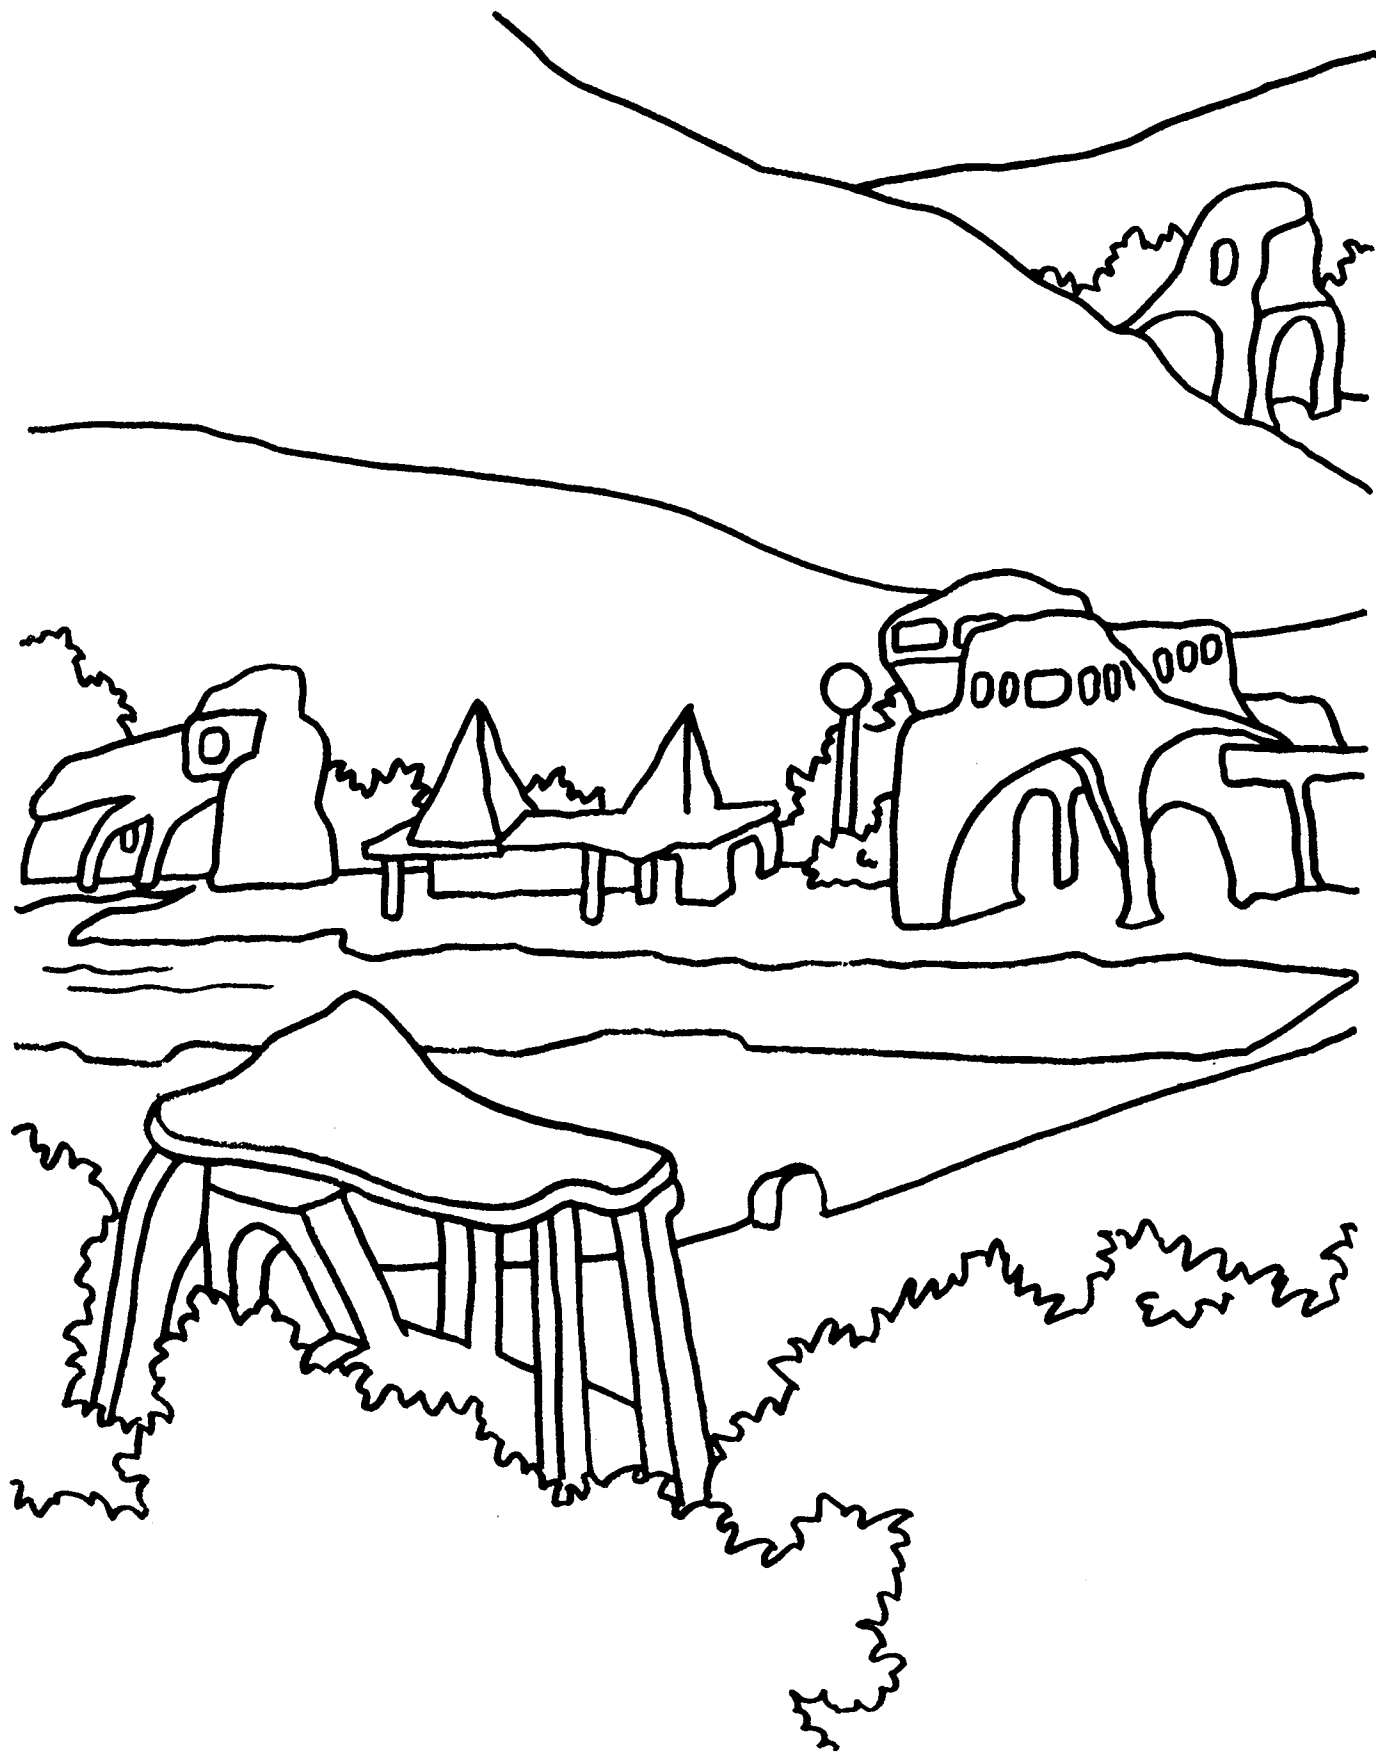

Hodge is knocked unconscious by the gorillas.

“You will come with us. You are our prisoners!”

Taylor is bound and taken captive.

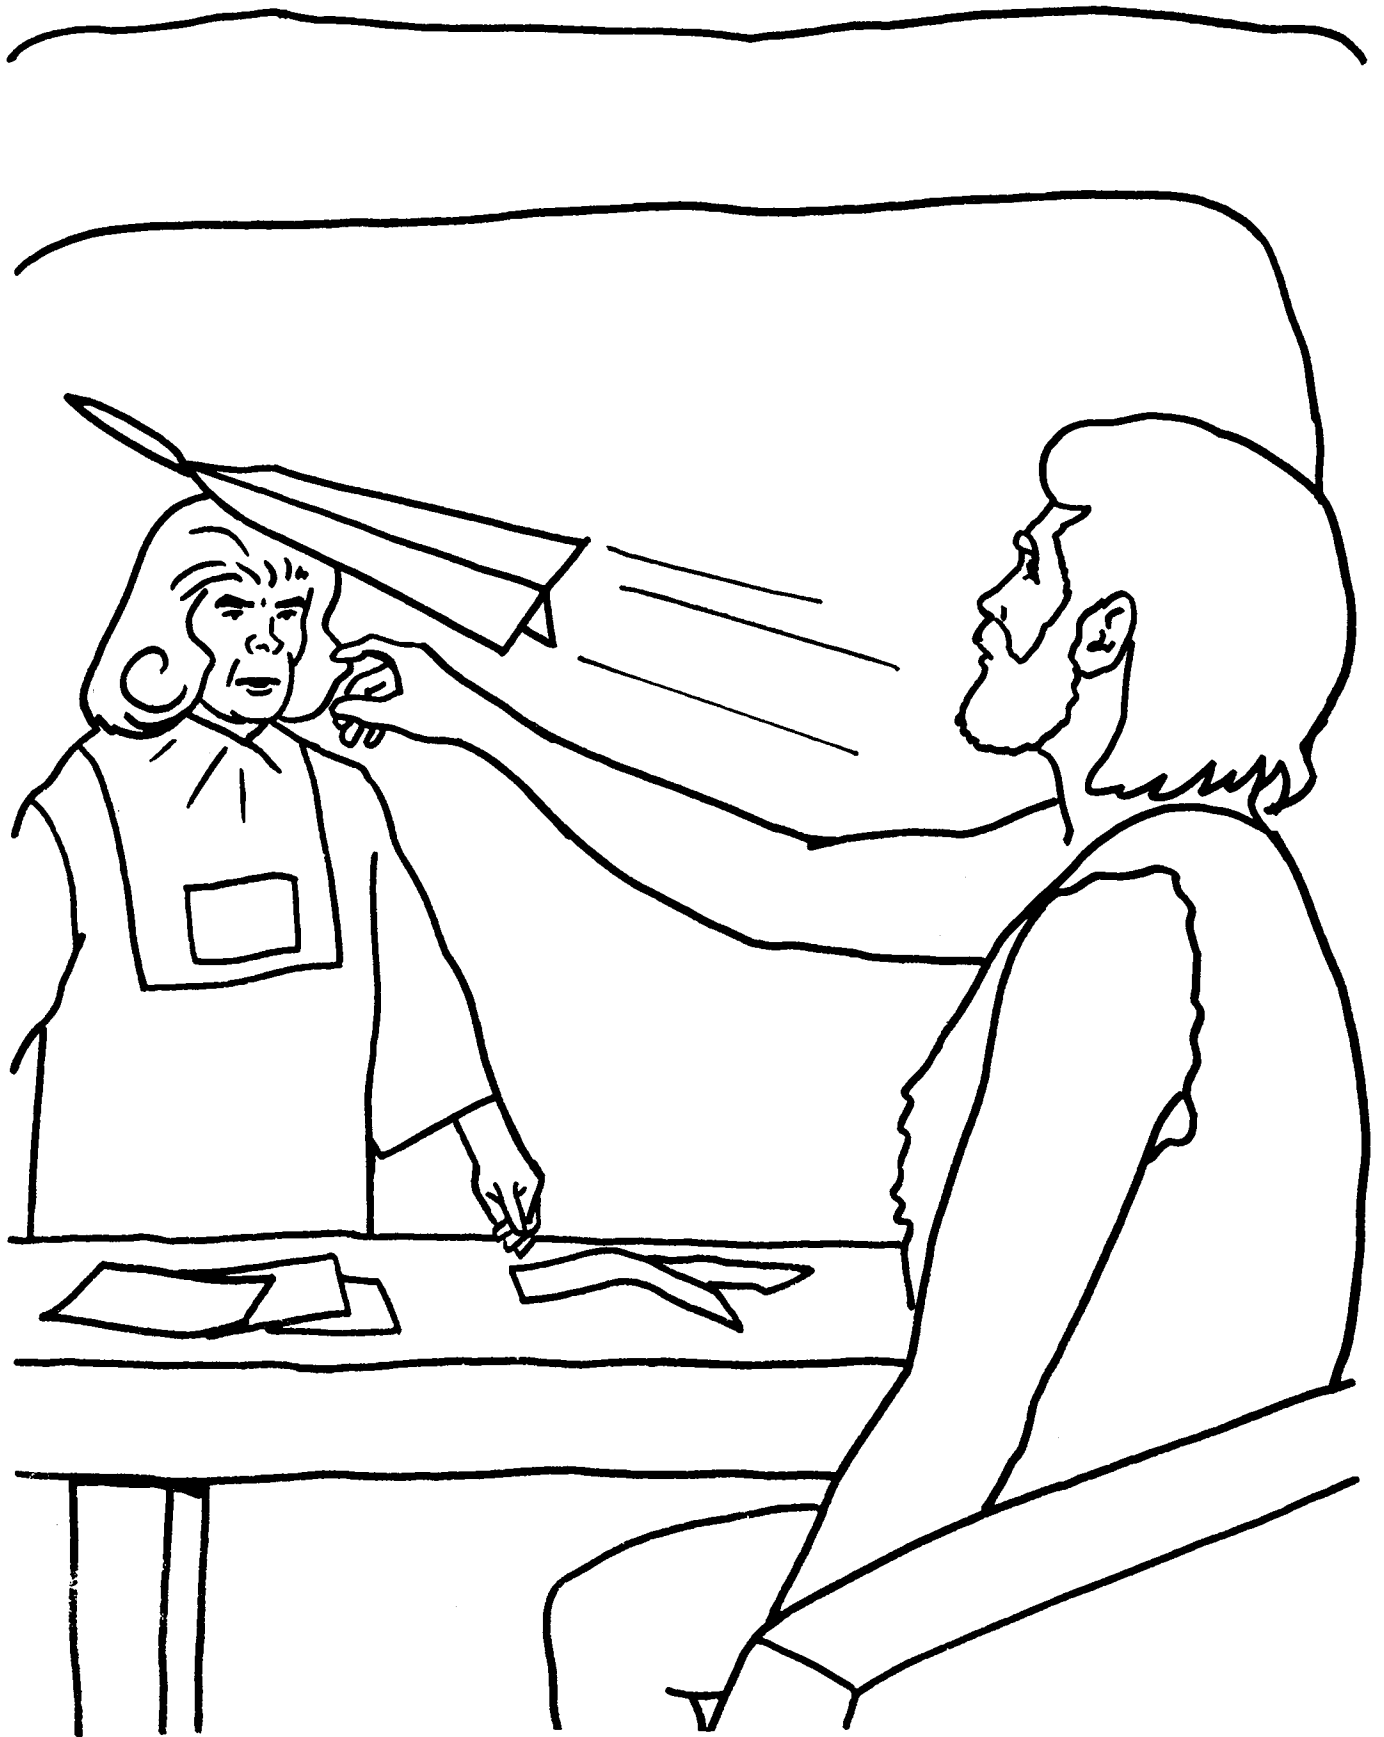

APE CITY

Taylor lies unconscious in the prison hospital.

Taylor's throat has been injured and he is unable to speak.

Taylor makes a paper airplane to explain to Zira how he came to her planet.

The prisoner appears to be intelligent. He has even tried to form words.

Cornelius cannot believe that a human can speak.

Cornelius inspects notes that Taylor has written.

"I am convinced that the prisoner is as intelligent as we are."

When Taylor's voice returns, he yells angrily at the prison guard.

The guard turns a fire hose on Taylor to silence him.

Taylor tries to teach Nova to speak.

Taylor and Nova fall deeply in love.

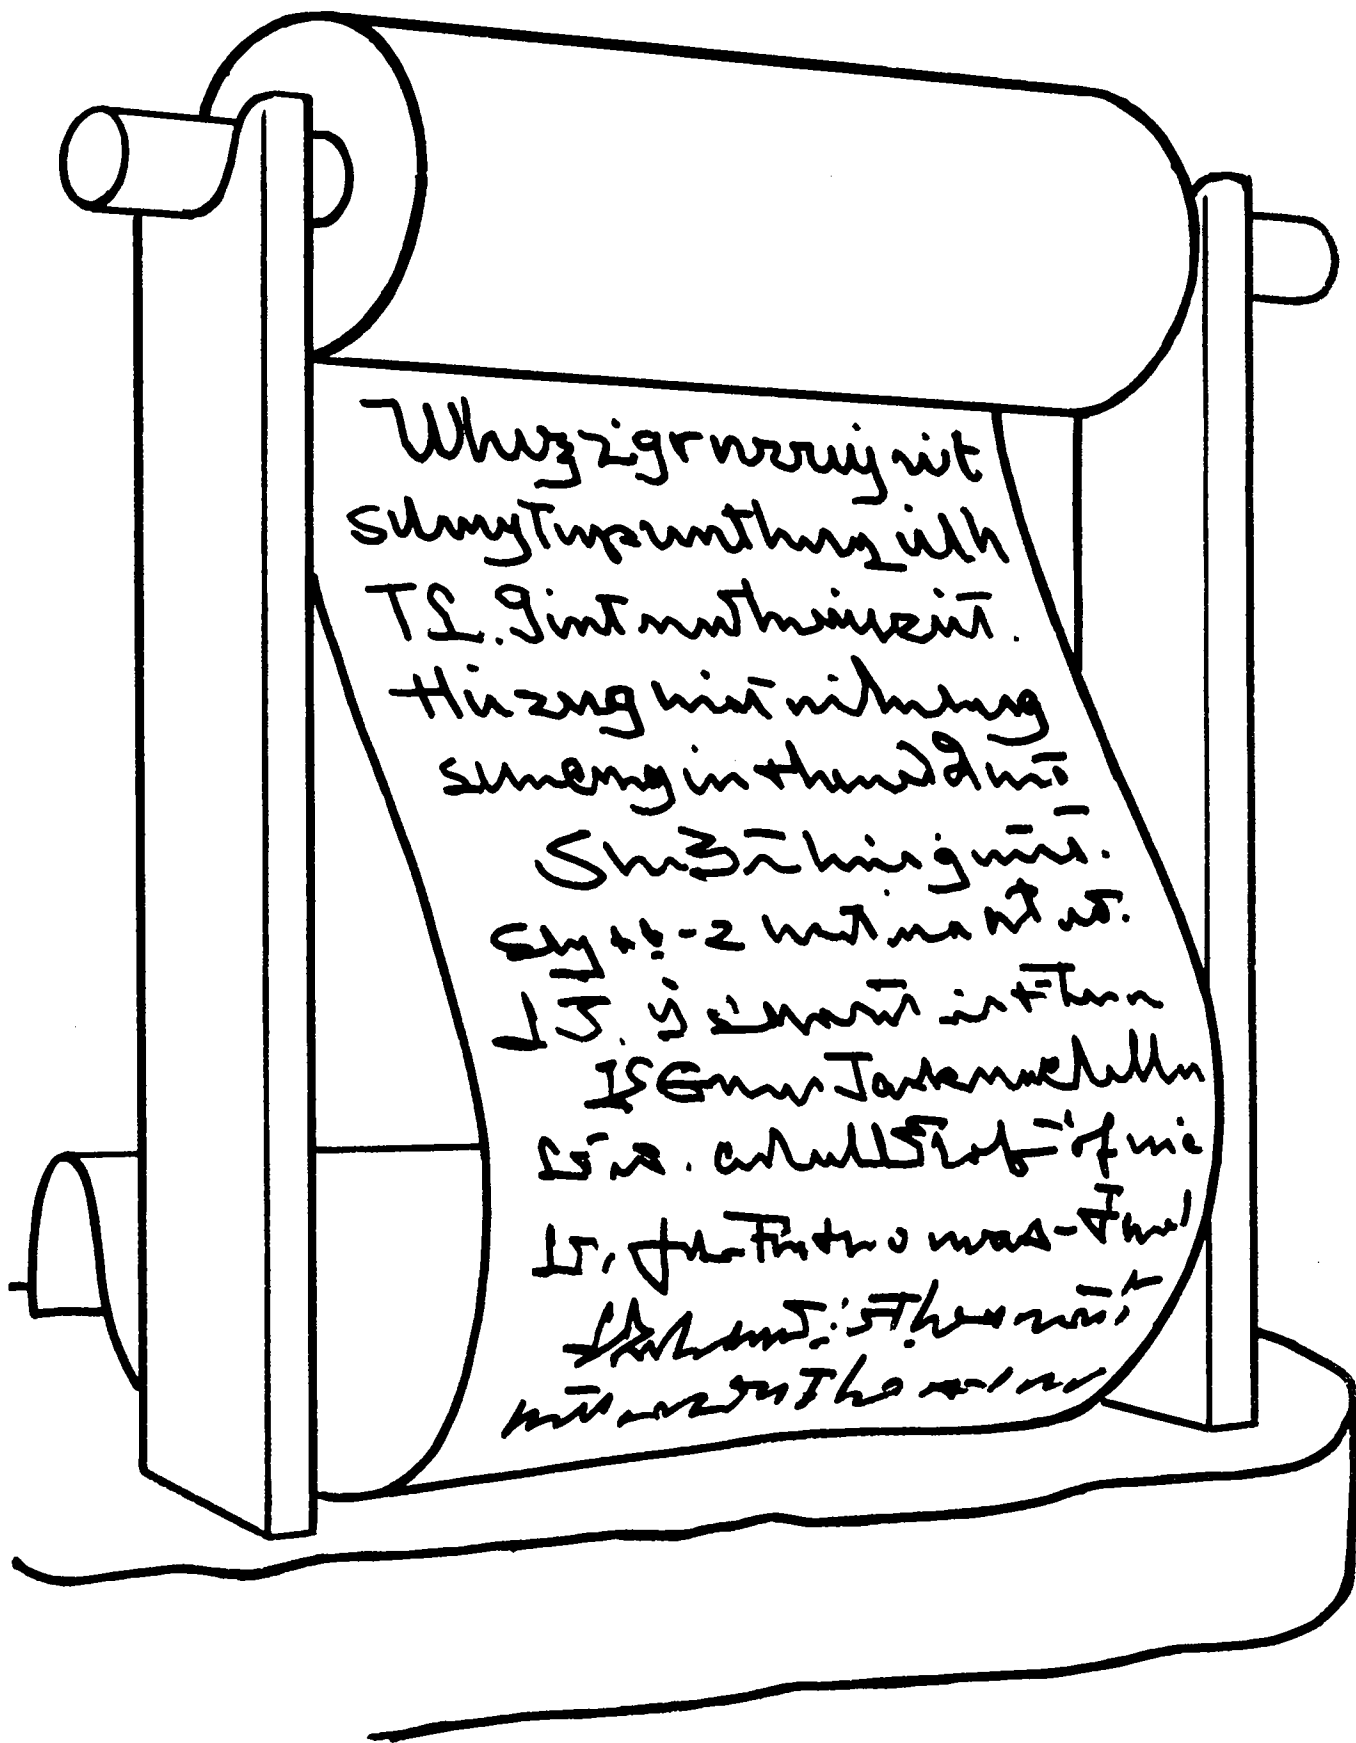

Dr. Zaius orders Taylor to appear before the High Tribunal.

“You are suspected of committing serious crimes.”

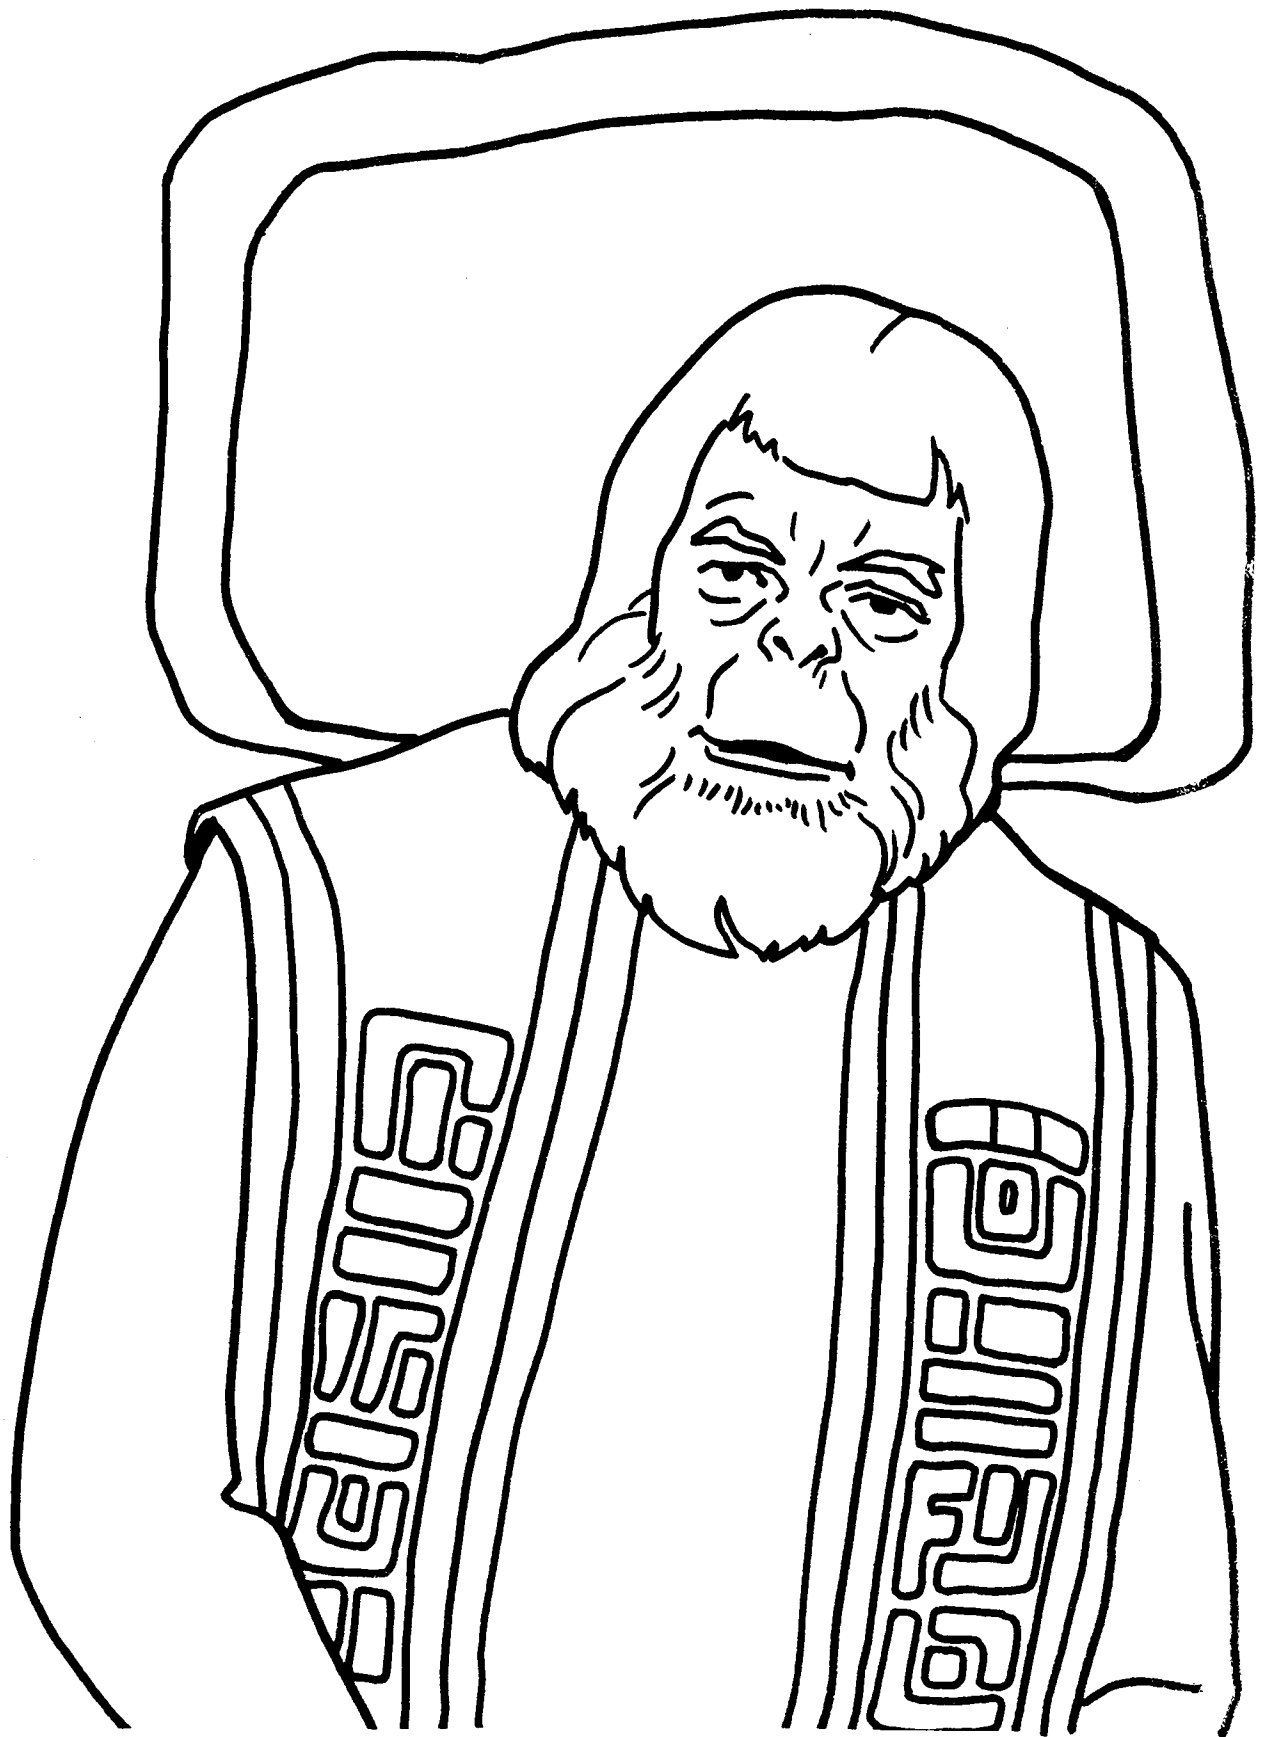

The judge reads the charges against Taylor.

Zira pleads with Dr. Zaius to release Taylor.

"The judges must decide his fate. It is out of my hands."

The judges discuss the case.

“We find the prisoner guilty as charged!”

Nova is sad when she hears the news.

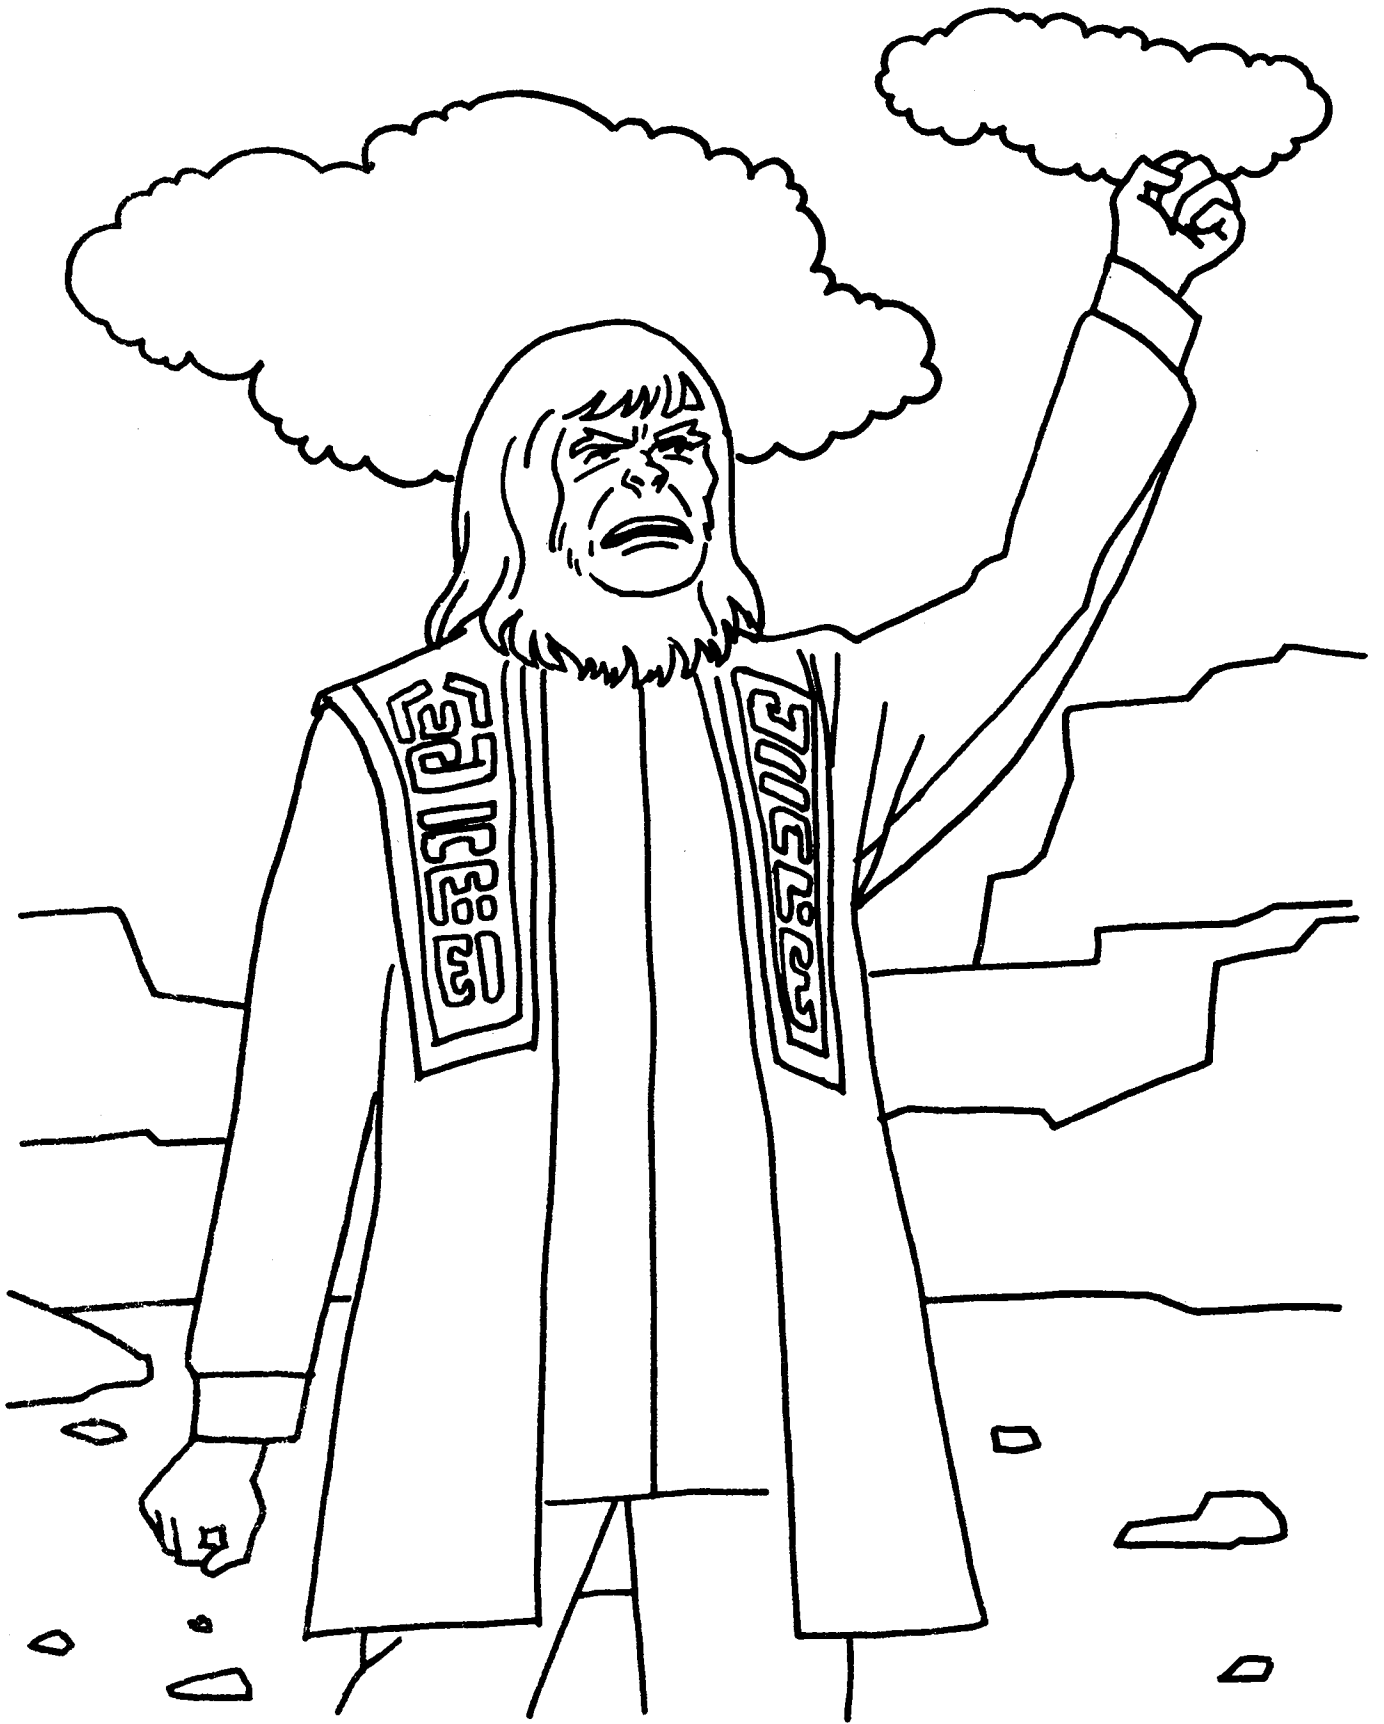

Zira and Cornelius decide to help Taylor.

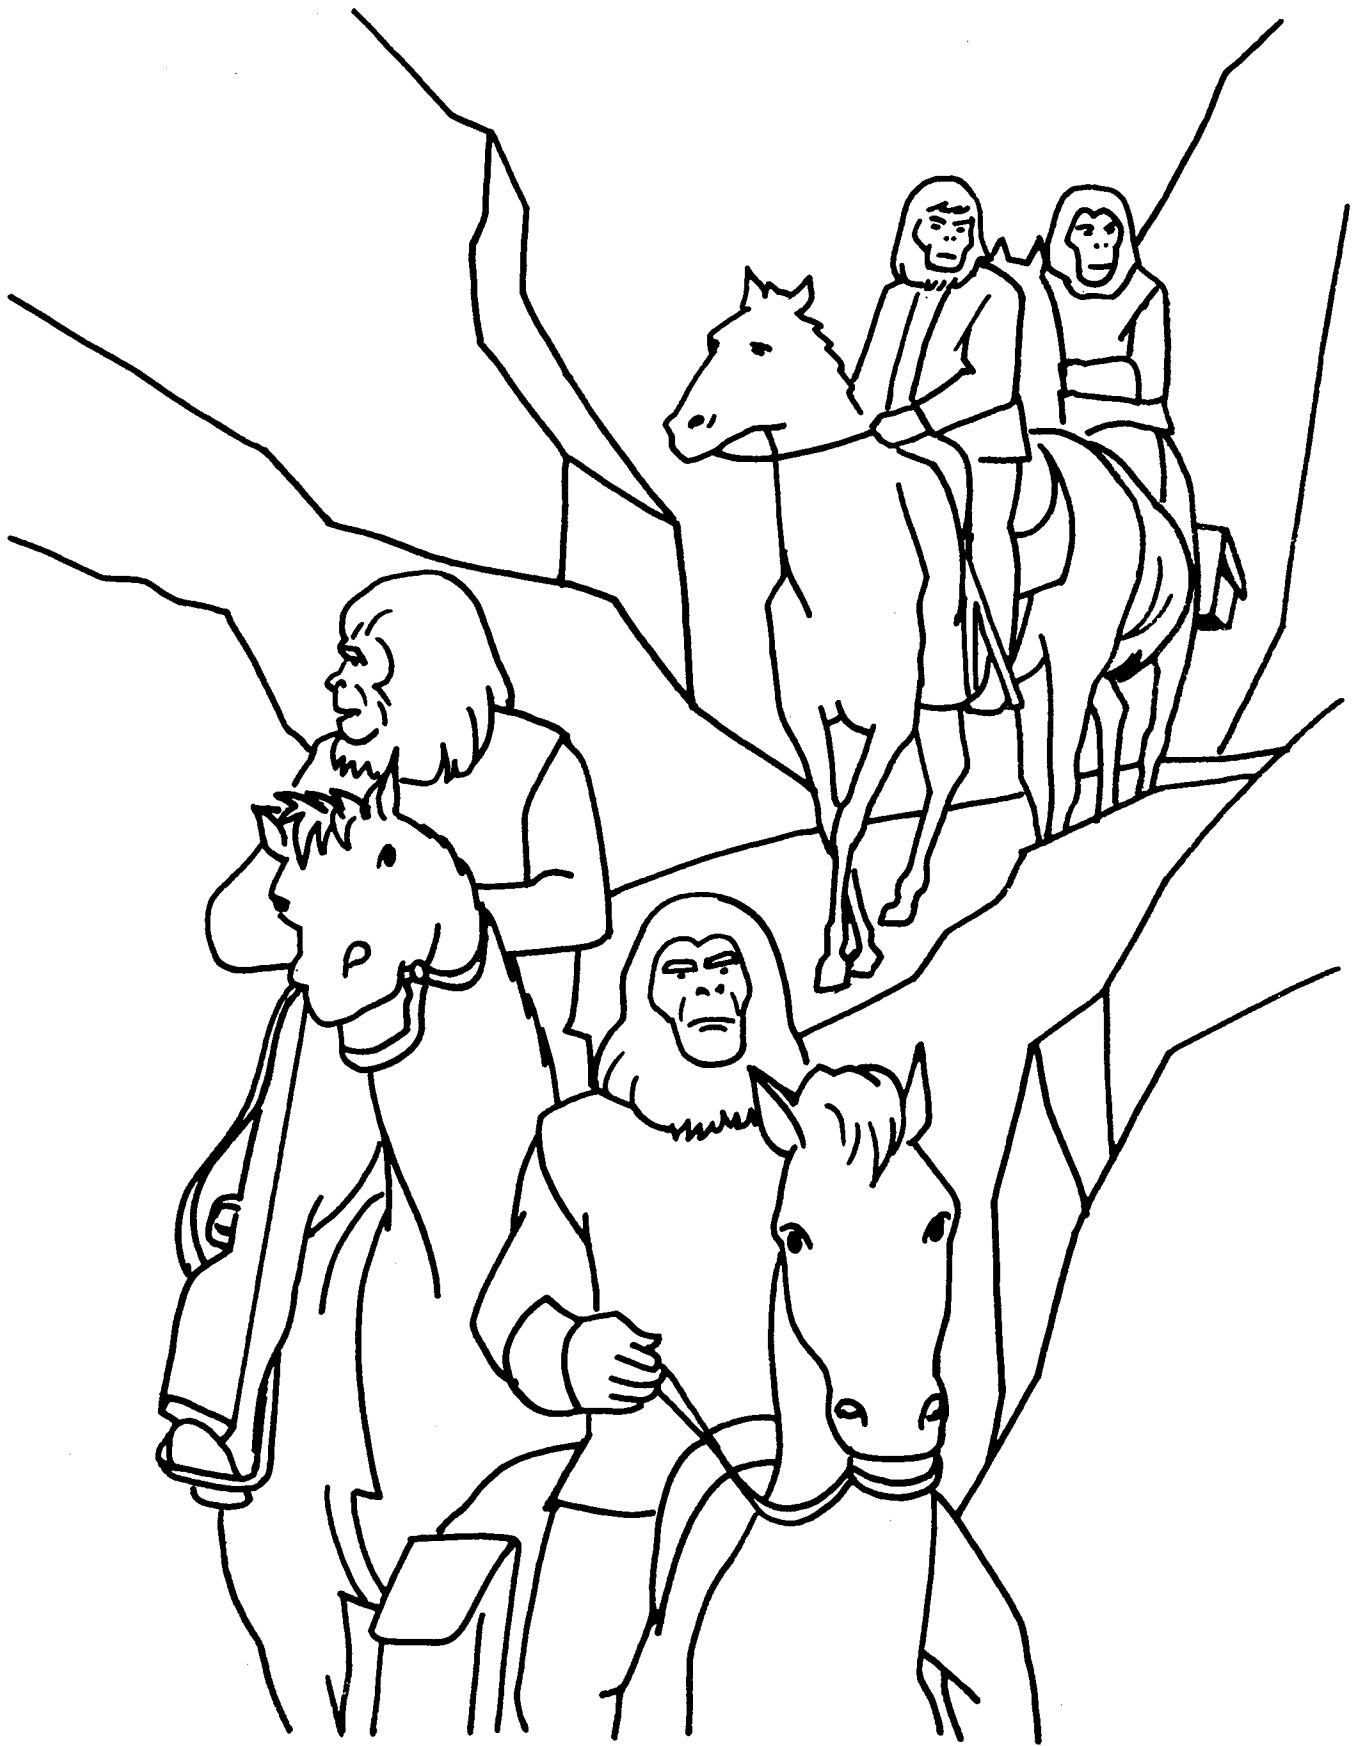

That night, Cornelius secretly enters the prison and overpowers the guard.

Taylor and Nova escape.

Dr. Zaius learns that Cornelius has betrayed him.

“We must find the prisoners and punish them.”

Taylor outwits Dr. Zaius and takes him captive.

Taylor says goodbye to Zira and Cornelius.

In the distance, Taylor sees the Statue of Liberty half buried in the sand. He realizes then that this strange planet is EARTH.
